PINCHOT MEETS OPERATORS

Continues Efforts to Bring Warring Factions Together.

WOULD PREVENT SUSPENSION

Governor Declares He Realizes That the Rights of the Operators and the Miners Neither Should be Arbitrarily Abridged Nor Denied—Bishop Hoban at the Executive Mansion in Harrisburg.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—Governor Pinchot today met the anthracite operators' committee in his effort to bring the warring factions together.

In his opening remarks the governor repeated the warning he had uttered before the miners' committee yesterday. "The public interest demands that this controversy shall be settled," Pinchot declared, "and that a suspension of mining shall be avoided. The thing is possible—it must be done."

Governor Pinchot said that he realized that the rights of neither side should be arbitrarily abridged nor denied. "I recognize the right of the mine workers," he said, "to organize for their own protection, and to fair and decent conditions of living. I am fully aware that the strike is a right which should not be arbitrarily abridged or denied. The exercise of this right, however, should be made unnecessary by the use of orderly and reasonable methods of adjustment. I recognize the right of mine operators to a just return on their investment and their managerial ability. I propose," he said in conclusion, "to treat these conferences with each side as wholly confidential. What is said to me by one side will not be revealed to the other, either now or later, unless by mutual agreement."

Governor Pinchot following the three-hour conference with the miners' committee refused to state how far he had gone with his plans for strike settlement or how the miners' committee had accepted his proffered help. Philip H. Murray, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, who is acting for President John L. Lewis, III at his hotel in Atlantic City, also refused to talk in "deference to the governor's wishes."

Governor Pinchot had at the executive mansion Bishop Hoban of Scranton, 70, friend of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, friend of the miners, and aide to Roosevelt in settling the anthracite strike of 1902. He intimated that he knew something of a like conference which Father Curran of Wilkesbarre was holding with John L. Lewis at Atlantic City.

MAYOR REESE TESTIFIES

Fate of Youngstown Officials Rests In Hands of the Governor.

Columbus, Aug. 28.—Governor Donahay has taken under advisement the cases of William G. Reese and James Watkins, respectively mayor and police chief of Youngstown. Failure to enforce laws was the charge against each. It probably will be several days before the governor will announce his decision.

Trial of Mayor Reese closed with his admission that he would not have had Watkins as his chief of police had it not been for civil service laws, which protected Watkins in his job. Watkins had been chief when Reese became mayor. Reese also testified that he believed that if Watkins had been as zealous in enforcing the law as the mayor himself had been, conditions in Youngstown "might have been better."

Reese previously had testified that Chief Watkins had warned him that they "might be framed" if they went after the law violators too strenuously. Reduction of the police force since he became mayor, necessitated because of the city's financial condition, was stressed in his testimony, as was also his insistence that he attempted to comply with every request for raids and took care of every complaint made to him.

Honolulu as Aviation Center.

London, Aug. 28.—A dispatch from Sydney, New South Wales, says the Pan-Pacific science congress discussed a proposal to make Honolulu the Pacific aviation center, communicating with North and South America, Japan and Australia. The reports of experts said that from Honolulu it is possible to reach the United States in 52 flying hours, Japan 72 hours, Australia 112 hours and South America 133 hours.

FIRPO CONFIDENT

Argentine Heavyweight Declines to Make Prediction, However.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28.—"I am confident, but I never make any predictions," said Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, when asked what he thought of his fight with Jack Dempsey Sept. 14. "All I can promise is that I'll fight. I'll do my best whatever the outcome," he added.

Horatio Lavelle, the challenger's manager, grew angry when he was told that some sport followers were charging that the fight was a "set-up" for Dempsey. "Firpo has a record that speaks for itself," Lavelle said. "He will be 27 years old next October 11. He has been fighting five years. He lost his first fight on a knockout. Since then he has had 26 battles. Of these he won every one, 22 by the knockout route and four on decisions. He is a match for Dempsey at Dempsey's best."

Negro Slain.

New Lexington, O., Aug. 28.—A posse is searching the vicinity of San Toy for Major Stovall, colored, of Belaire, who is said to have shot and killed William Bailey, 38, of San Toy, also colored. Stovall and Bailey are said by police to have quarreled.

BELGIAN NOTE DISAPPOINTING

Does Not Contain a Single Constructive Proposal.

MAKES CLAIMS TO PRIORITY

Also Proposes the Substitution of a New Percentage Agreement Based on Material Damage Only and Excluding Damages to Persons. Would Cut Out the "Notes" and Resume Secret Diplomacy.

London, Aug. 28.—The Belgian note in answer to the recent British memorandum, which arrived here, while it tries to be as mild and cordial as possible, is pathetically helpless.

The note does not contain a single constructive proposal and makes not even the slightest reference to any impartial international commission to investigate Germany's capacity to pay.

Though the note overflows with assurances of gratitude to Britain for her help, and with expressions of sympathy for Britain at the burden of unemployment and trade depression, and repudiating any idea that Belgium wishes to deprive Britain of her dues, the note proposes the substitution of a new percentage agreement based on material damage only and excluding damages to persons. This plan, while nearly doubling Belgium's share and materially increasing that of France, would seriously depreciate that of Britain.

About one-third of the note is devoted to a discussion of the Belgian claim to priority, citing numerous diplomatic declarations in support of the claims, including one from ex-President Wilson, together with a summary of facts and figures, and a list of concessions made by Belgium in previous conferences from the Spa congress to the London meeting in December, 1922.

While repudiating any aim to assist the annexation movement on the Rhine, the passage relative to the progressive evacuation of the Ruhr has been emasculated by Premier Poincare and left painfully vague. The note winds up with the hope that there will be no more notes, but that there will be a return to private conversations or a resumption of secret diplomacy.

CHAIRMAN HULL RETURNS TO DUTY

Foretells Issues of the Next Presidential Campaign.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Chairman Cordell Hull of the Democratic national committee has returned to duty after an illness which began before the death of President Harding, and the assumption of the presidency by Mr. Coolidge.

The change in the administration and titular leadership of the Republican party confronts the Democratic chief with the necessity of devising a new scheme of campaign strategy.

Chairman Hull asserts that the change in the office of the executive does not change the fact that the presidential campaign of 1924 will be fought out on questions of party policy. Mr. Coolidge having announced at the outset that he would carry out the policies of his predecessor, the issues, it is held, remain unchanged, except as they may be supplemented by the record of the new regime.

This condition of affairs, according to Chairman Hull, insures that among the outstanding issues of the campaign will be the tariff act; merchant marine policy; relief in transportation and transportation costs; tax reduction; reduction of high cost of living; prosecution of profiteers and agricultural relief legislation.

Searching For Two Women.

New York, Aug. 28.—The police are searching for two flashily dressed young women, who were in the apartment of John A. Sutphen, a private secretary, when he died, supposedly of "prohibition rum." The coroner found cyanide of potassium had killed him. Death seemed to have come unexpectedly to Sutphen, the coroner's report said. His body was found lying easily on a couch and a freshly lighted pipe was held in his hand.

GARRARD B. WINSTON

Recently Appointed Assistant Secretary of Treasury.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Salary Boost Action Deferred.

Columbus, Aug. 28.—The state emergency board deferred until later in the week action on the demand of penitentiary guards for increased wages and the recommendation of Welfare Director Harper that salaries of all institution guards and attendants be increased 20 per cent. The board decide not to act until all the members could be present. State Senator Atwood, chairman of the senate finance committee, the only board member absent, is expected to be back from his vacation in two or three days.

Dentist Slain.

Cleveland, Aug. 28.—The body of Horace W. Hamilton, his face badly mutilated, was found at the foot of an outside stairway leading to the basement of Public hall here. His hands were marked with knife cuts and in one of them was clenched an open jack knife. Police believe he was attacked and dragged to the foot of the stairway. Hamilton, a dentist, was employed in a laboratory here. A negro suspect is under arrest.

Inhaled Monoxide Gas.

Toledo, Aug. 28.—Harvey Mominee, 28, fisherman, is in a serious condition from burns and monoxide gas poisoning at his home here after being rescued with the body of his dead partner from their disabled motor boat. Mominee's partner, Bert Pete, 33, died from inhaling monoxide gas fumes which filled the boat's cabin when the motor's exhaust pipe exploded.

Indian Skeleton Unearthed.

Newark, O., Aug. 28.—Workmen taking gravel from a pit near Utica, this county, for use on road work, unearthed three skeletons, apparently those of prehistoric Indians. Two of the skeletons were in a sitting position, while the third apparently was resting across their knees.

Slashed by Holdup Men.

Cleveland, Aug. 28.—Charles Dorido, 41, is in Charity hospital fatally wounded, following an attack in which he was slashed almost beyond recognition by two holdup men. Dorido told police that the men attacked him with knives when he refused to hand over his roll. Four suspects were arrested.

Woman Loses Life.

Columbus, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Sam Lamantia was killed instantly and her husband and daughter injured, when the machine in which they were riding skidded on a wet pavement and overturned. The woman's skull was fractured.

Wheat in Ross County.

Chillicothe, O., Aug. 28.—Ross county farm bureau has just tabulated figures showing that the average yield of wheat per acre in Ross county is 21 bushels. Some farmers reported a yield of 40 bushels an acre.

Turned Over In Ditch.

Newark, O., Aug. 28.—Charles Hising, garage man at Hanover, east of here, was killed when his auto skidded on an interurban track and turned over in a ditch. His son, Harry, was cut about the head.

New Japanese Premier.

Tokyo, Aug. 28.—Viscount Yasuya Uchida has been appointed premier to succeed the late Baron Kato.

FINDER OF GOLD DISAPPEARS

Money Believed the Property of Grover Bergdoll.

GOVERNMENT WOULD SEIZE IT

Agents of Department of Justice, Well Versed and Experienced in the Bergdoll Case, to Investigate the Whole Affair—Money Unearthed by Road Laborer Near Hagerstown, Maryland.

Washington, Aug. 28.—If the money, said to be $105,000 in gold, found near Hagerstown, Md., should prove to be the property of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the United States government will seek to obtain possession of it, Alien Property Custodian Miller said, and added:

"In May, 1921, when the alien property custodian seized the property of Bergdoll, in response to President Harding's orders, it was done within the scope of the trading with the enemy act. The seizure of the Bergdoll property has been successfully defended by the government in all court actions brought so far.

"Under the Knox-Porter peace resolution, adopted July 2, 1921, a provision was contained therein that any demand made by the government through the alien property custodian, covering enemy property, was in full force and effect for property that had not been actually reduced to possession, even though a state of peace existed by reason of the resolution.

"The demands served on banks, Mrs. Bergdoll and other individuals known to have Bergdoll's property, would cover the so-called sum of money which Bergdoll was reported to have hidden in the vicinity of Hagerstown.

"Arrangements have been made with William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, for agents well versed and experienced in the Bergdoll case to investigate the whole occurrence in the vicinity of Hagerstown."

According to reports reaching here from Hagerstown, Lee Houser, finder of the money, has disappeared. At his house it was said he had "gone fishing," but no information as to his definite whereabouts was obtainable. Houser unearthed the money while working on the highway.

A secret passage leading from the room which Bergdoll occupied at the Vivian hotel here was discovered for the first time. It probably explains how the draft dodger was able to make his second escape when the hotel was surrounded by federal agents.

BOYS ROASTED ALIVE

Tied to a Tree While at Play and Match Applied by Other Boys.

Belmar, N. J., Aug. 28.—The police have Dick Foreman and Caleb Hubbard in jail, wondering what charge, if any, they will place against the boys, following the fatal termination of a game of "Red Indian" in which Hubbard's brother, William, and Charles Spindler, were burned to death at the stake. Foreman is 17 and Hubbard 18. Hubbard's brother was 16 and Spindler 11.

Foreman and Caleb Hubbard were "scouts" and "captured" William Hubbard and the Spindler boy, tying them to a tree and piling excelsior about their feet. Spindler and the other captive laughed and thought it fine fun. Foreman, crying, told the police they intended to light the excelsior and then kick it away from the captives. But neither realized that the ground around the tree was saturated with kerosene from the nearby Coast Gas company's plant. At the first flash from the match there was a burst of flames around the two captive boys. The frightened "scouts" frantically fought to save the two boys tied to the tree, but they were soon blazing torches. Death soon relieved their suffering.

Kills Son and Self.

Rochester, Pa., Aug. 28.—Charles Stewart, 42, treasurer of the Rochester Trust company, shot and killed his 14-year-old son, Horace, probably fatally wounded another son, Walter, 9, and then ended his own life. A year's constant brooding over the death of his wife was believed to have driven Stewart insane.

Three Persons Killed.

Toledo, Aug. 28.—Joseph Lanan's automobile struck raised car tracks, skidded and turned over in a ditch at Point Place, near this city. Jacob Ohlinger, 60; Peter Switzer, 35, and his wife, Elizabeth Switzer, 35, were killed.

HUSBAND SOUGHT

Alleged Slayer of Bride Not Believed to Have Killed Himself.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 28.—Authorities abandoned their theory that G. MacKay Price, sought in connection with the death of his bride, had committed suicide. Price was believed to have shot and killed his young wife after she refused to discuss his charges that she had been untrue to him.

"You wouldn't dare to shoot me," Mrs. Price is said to have taunted her husband when he threatened to kill her. Price, according to his sister-in-law, Mrs. L. J. Zopp, fired five bullets from a rifle into his wife's body. The alleged slayer then went to a neighbor's house and asked for a gun with which to kill himself. His request refused, he returned to his own home, washed his clothes and disappeared.

Three Americans Injured.

London, Aug. 28.—Three Americans were injured in an aeroplane accident at Maidstone, when a French plane arriving from Paris crashed to the ground. One passenger, a Russian, was killed. The Americans were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith, who are suffering from cuts and bruises, and Albert M. Austin, who is unconscious from concussion and is being privately treated at West Malling. The aeroplane, which was a Farman Goliath, was flying to Croydon from Paris.

FOR INDEFINITE PERIOD

President Coolidge Has Discontinued All Cabinet Meetings.

Washington, Aug. 28.—President Coolidge has discontinued all cabinet meetings for an indefinite period, it was revealed at the white house.

Members of the cabinet have been formally notified that they are excluded from the customary twice a week round table conference with the executive until otherwise advised. It will probably be well along in September before the cabinet is called together again.

In the meantime, however, the president from day to day is calling one or another of the department heads for individual conferences on problems relating to that particular department.

LaFollette Delays Return.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Senator LaFollette has notified his office that he will delay his return from Oct. 9, the day originally set, to Oct. 20. The voyage back from Europe to New York will be made aboard the American liner George Washington. It was also learned that the senator has ordered that arrangements go forward for a formal conference of the "progressive bloc" members before congress is convened in December.

Wagner Outpoints Dundee.

WHEAT CONTESTS

State and County Championships Provided and Also Honor Clubs.

Announcement of rules for the new state wheat growing contest has been made by extension specialists in farm crops at the Ohio State university. The contest fields will be 10 acres, the same size of fields entered in corn contests which the college has conducted for the past six years.

To be eligible for the Ohio "Forty-Bushel Wheat Club," a state honorary organization similar to the "Hundred Bushel Corn Club" the contestant must raise 400 bushels of wheat, or 40 bushels to the acre. This is three times the average wheat yield in America; 15 bushels to the acre.

The contest is open to any Ohio farmer over 19 years old. It is provided that the field must have regular sides, so that it can be easily and accurately measured by the judges. The contestant may grow any good milling variety of red winter wheat.

Like the 10-acre corn contest, competition will be on a county basis, and the farmer with the best yield in a county will win the championship medal for that county, provided his yield exceeds 25 bushels to the acre. If his yield is 40 or more bushels to the acre, he will in addition be given honorary membership on the rolls of the State Forty Bushel club.

The farmer with the highest yield in the state will be named state champion and presented a trophy cup at Farmers' week held every February at the Ohio State university.

Provision is made for the appointment of disinterested local judges and rules are drawn to govern their measurements of yield.

BUTTER PRICES

No Drought, No Shortage, Farmers Not Getting More for Milk.

Note the price of butter—high for this season of the year. Why? No one can assign a reason. Formerly, market reports contained information showing how prices reflected conditions. But that was the law of supply and demand was working. Nowadays consumers seemingly are victims of a system that is conducted on the theory of charging all the traffic will bear. Prices are not always uniform; if they were, it would look as if the dealers were in a combination, but prices are high enough to insure a profit to even the lowest priced dealer.

There has been no drought of consequence, and no apparent shortage of pasture. Yet butter is high. But farmers are not getting more for their milk, so the inference is that the dairy companies are taking a bigger profit. Or does the increase in price represent the increased cost of manufacture? If the dairy companies are not gouging, they owe it to themselves to tell the public why a pound of butter costs so much. There is a lurking suspicion in the public mind that there is too wide a margin between what the farmer receives for his milk and what the butter consumer has to pay.—Toledo Times.

114th O. V. I. WILL MEET IN CIRCLEVILLE

Members of the 114th Ohio Volunteer Infantry and their families are invited to attend the 38th annual reunion of the organization September 12 and 13 in Circleville. D. B. Saint, secretary, of Mt. Sterling asks members to inform him of any deaths or change of address of 114th veterans since the last reunion.

Rivals the "Human Fly."

Of all American animals, bighorn, the mountain sheep, is one of the most remarkable. Not only is he equally remarkable in his ability to live, and live well, in an environment where it would seem that no animal of such size could possibly sustain life. There, on the roof of the world, he not only sustains life, but winter or summer, appears to be fat and in the best of condition, the People's Home Magazine says.

AMUSEMENTS

The Paramount picturization of Edith Wharton's novel, "The Glimpses of the Moon," had its premier presentation at the Met theater last night and was cordially received by a large audience.

The story tells of the married life of a young couple, Susan Branch (Bebe Daniels), one of society's "poor sisters" and "Nick" Lansing, her husband played by David Powell, a struggling writer. "Nick" and Susan become involved in the domestic affairs of Mr. and Mrs. Vanderlyn. The latter, played by Rubye de Remer, has been helpful, financially, to Susan, and in return for her kindness, she demands the aid of Susan in a scheme that almost results in her separation from her husband. The affair, however, is satisfactorily cleared up, and Susan and "Nick" are reunited. "Nick" has sold a novel, and he is established as an author.

Nita Naldi has the role of the frivolous Mrs. Vanderlyn, and her work is a close second to that of Miss Daniels. Others in the cast are Maurice Costello, Charles Gerrard, William Kuirk and Pearl Sindelar.

This is a really excellent production absolutely censor-proof and entertainment that we heartily recommend to picture fans.

APPOINTED VICE PRESIDENT.

At a meeting of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad directors meeting held at Cleveland Friday, Herbert Fitzpatrick, of Huntington, West Virginia, was elected vice president and general counsel. Mr. Fitzpatrick has been for years the road's West Virginia counsel. He succeeds Henry T. Wickman of Richmond, Virginia, who asked to be relieved of the responsibilities. Mr. Wickham has been identified with the road for fifty years.

In addition to the program of spending $37,000,000 for improvements an additional $500,000 was appropriated. This amount will be used for the double tracking of the Chesapeake & Ohio northern line.

HOOSIER
—the Kitchen Cabinet that saves miles of steps

—the Only Kitchen Convenience that Adjusts Your Work-Table to Suit Your Height

Gymnasium instructors have a little trick of asking new members of their classes to hold their hands above their heads and open and close their fingers. After a minute or two the student, usually suffers an acute pain in the muscles. Yet opening and closing the fingers is a simple, natural operation. It's the unnatural position in which the arms are held which wears one out.

Unless your work-table is adjusted to the proper height to suit your individual build, you stand in an unnatural position which puts a muscle strain on arms and back for such movements as rolling dough and beating eggs.

That is why so many women wear themselves out at their kitchen work. It is also why women who own the new HOOSIER are freed from such muscle-strains. For the new HOOSIER gives you a work-table adjusted to your comfort.

An initial payment as low as $1.00 will put a HOOSIER in your home.

Rich in Misfortunes.
At the end of life a man finds himself rich, not so much by his fortune as by his misfortunes. The Persians had a vase of glass, which when empty was colorless, but when filled with wine flashed forth many rare pictures. So a bosom empty of a heart of pain makes a lusterless life, but a bosom in which a heart of sorrow is hidden virtues—

LAND SALES.
Samuel T. Rife, as executor of the estate of Charles M. Rife, deceased, Monday sold at public auction 51 acres of land belonging to said estate to Mrs. Mabel Walling at $151.25 an acre. This tract is in Circleville township just north of the city.

Irvin F. Snyder, as assignee of Job E. Renick on Monday sold the home farm of the assignor in Jackson township, consisting of 241 acres to H. M. Crites at $150 an acre. It was appraised at $225 an acre.

Coconut Shell Baskets.
Really attractive hanging baskets for ferns may be easily constructed from half shells of coconuts. Crimson Clover Seed of Inferior Quality

Samples Tested for Germination Were Very Low.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An examination of the quality of crimson clover seed has recently been made by the seed testing laboratories of the bureau of plant industry, United States Department of Agriculture. Samples secured from representative dealers were tested for germination. As this was done during the month of June, seed of the 1923 crop was not available.

One-fifth of the samples was found to contain less than 25 per cent of live seed, and two-fifths of the samples contained less than 65 per cent of pure live crimson clover seed. In other words, two-fifths of the samples of crimson clover seed offered farmers during the month of June were of such poor quality that they would not be permitted entry into the United States under the seed importation act. The proportion of high grade seed offered in the market will be increased when the 1923 crop seed is available, but nevertheless the old seed of low vitality now being offered will be sold for seeding purposes.

It should be kept in mind, says the department, that crimson clover seed loses its vitality more rapidly than most other seeds, and therefore it is especially important to know in advance of seeding how much of it may be expected to grow under favorable soil and weather conditions. If the germination is not known before sowing, many failures in the field are sure to follow.

Sells Pure Bred Cattle to Oklahoma Scoffers

Illustrating the satisfaction and prosperity that come with improved live stock, Robert Ellis, an Oklahoma dairyman, tells of his experiences with scoffers when he began raising pure bred. "When I shipped in my first pure bred heifer," he stated in a recent letter to the United States Department of Agriculture, "the old, gray-headed men gathered around me and asked me what I paid for her. When I told them $240, they said I had more money than brains. They said I could not sell any cattle in the county at that price. But I am glad I am a pure bred stockman and one of the first to enroll with Uncle Sam to put the scrub sires out. I have sold cattle to some of the men who laughed at me and I received $450 for one animal.

Mr. Ellis adds that he observed the difference between scrubs and pure bred by being unable to obtain more than $10 for a scrub while pure bred ordinarily sold for $150 and up.

Dusting Most Practical to Relieve Fowls of Lice

Lice on chickens multiply so fast that one pair of lice may be grandparents to over 100,000 descendants in two months. Most of their lives are spent on the fowl, part on the nest. Eggs or nits are most commonly found on the barbs of the down feathers.

Body lice spend their entire life on the fowl. Dipping often causes colds and disease, so dusting has been found to be the most practical. A cheap and good home-made powder can be made by mixing one part of stock dip or crude carbolic acid with three parts of gasoline and using it to moisten as much cement or plaster of paris as possible. Dry and apply liberally to the fowls.

Greatest Food Value of Corn Found in Silage

Corn for fodder should be cut at the same time as for silage and placed in large round shocks well tied at the top. Corn fodder is a good reliable dry feed, but is wasteful. Experiments have abundantly shown that the most economical way of preserving the greatest food value of corn is to silo it for live stock. Colorado experiments show that corn shocked and dry cured in the field loses all the way from 25 per cent up to 85 per cent of its value by blowing away and by other losses, largely mechanical, due entirely to climatic conditions.—Extension Service, Colorado Agricultural College.

Clover Crop Will Not Thrive in Sour Pasture

Some pastures are sour and as the result clover does not thrive in them. Blue grass and other grasses may yield fairly well on land that is somewhat sour, but the ideal blue grass pasture, in fact, the ideal pasture of any kind, is one that contains at least some clover. The atmospheric nitrogen which the clovers and all legumes are able to assimilate, adds just that much fertility to the soil and then serves as food for the grasses. This is why a blue-grass pasture containing clover always produces more feed than one containing no clover.

Green Crops for Swine Are of Much Importance

The importance of green crops for hogs can hardly be overestimated. No hog breeder can succeed today unless he makes use of green pastures. All pasture crops are more valuable while they are young and succulent. It is advisable to have two or three pastures which can be used alternately.

FOOD PRODUCERS

Spend Much Time on Wheat Because It is Easy to Raise.

American agriculture at present is afflicted with an overabundance of "30 day farmers" who endeavor to confine operation to wheat production alone, President Guy Huston of the American Association of Joint Stock Land Banks said in his opening address before the third annual convention of the organization.

Because wheat is the least troublesome crop on the whole list, Mr. Huston said, it could be produced in fertile areas, with "about 30 days real work each year." This condition, he explained, resulted in the present great production and the consequent difficulties of the wheat farmer. Diversification of production would permanently relieve the situation, he said.

Mr. Huston, who also is president of the Chicago joint stock land bank, which last year loaned approximately 60 per cent of the total land bank funds circulated in the United States, declared that "more than 50 per cent of the farms in the United States are clear of debt." Nine out of every 10 farmers who are borrowers, he said, are carrying their obligations satisfactorily.

Charley had twin cousins of his own age. The twins looked much alike and were neat and clean. Charley's mother said to him, "Why, Charley, look how nice your cousins look and how dirty you are!" Whereupon he answered: "Well, mother, they just need to look at each other to see how they look and I have no one to look at to see if I look right."

THRIFT and EDUCATION

We think that "Thrift" should be as much the part of the American child's education as arithmetic, geography and spelling.

Doesn't it sound rather inconsistent to teach all the fine points about MAKING MONEY without saying a word about how to TAKE CARE OF IT after it is made.

A good way to teach thrift, is for each and every parent to see that his child has a Savings Account in this solid institution.

Such a step will have a beneficial influence on the child's future character.

Peculiar Rain Tree.

Rain from tree foliage is an interesting phenomenon of the Canary Islands. Dr. S. V. Perez of Tenerife notes that the famous rain tree of Ferro, Canaries, grew on a head land where the mountain mists from the trade winds collected, and by means of water tanks under it the poor inhabitants of that island, where there are no springs, actually gathered enough water for drinking purposes. The effect of the foliage in condensing moisture is said to be evident to anybody passing through a mist-covered forest in any of these islands.

OUR GARDENS

Came Out of the East Says Wife of Famous Sculptor.

Like other civilizing influences, gardens came out of the east. Perhaps the antiquarians have too often told each other that the ancient Greeks had little feeling for landscape, little love for the cultivation of flowers. And botanists sadly inform us that in the old pre-Burbank Attic days the world had in its gardens only the rose violet and lily, the iris, narcissus and crocus, the amaranth, gladiolus and poppy, besides a few other classic favorites. Yet we know that with the Greeks, as with the Egyptians and Romans, garlands of flowers played an important part in festivals, religious or otherwise. We know that Greek philosophy gladly took the air in gardens, with statues of the gods and half-gods close at hand. The Greek money-suckle and ivy and acanthus have been immortalized in sculpture, thru the Greek genius for form.

The genius for form! Perhaps more than we moderns realize, this genius for form—for the making of significant shapes out of all sorts of practicable materials, organic or inorganic—has been a fundamental influence in the most famous gardens of all time. Without letting our surmises stray as far back as to the garden of man's first disobedience, we can readily see that hanging gardens and terraced farms, whether in Babylon or in the Borromean Islands or in Peru, demand first of all a bold reshaping of nature by art, a sculpture upon the hillside. Not only must the earth itself, the very ground under foot, be carved into plateaux, stairways, watercourses, but even the waters must be curiously turned and modelled into new lines, now for the utilitarian purposes of irrigation and refreshment, now in the service of beauty. Again, living trees and shrubs, especially the evergreen varieties, have from early times been trimmed into forms of usefulness or ornament. Man no sooner acquires a possession, say a field or a garden plot than he longs to frame it and hedge it and bound it and accent it with finality pleasing to his taste. Today, we sometimes look on the English topiary work of the seventeenth century as a quaint and agreeable pedantry of landscape art. We smile a little at those venerable bushes of box or privet carved into shapes of ships, peacocks, and unicorns. But perhaps the fantasy was

BANK INSTITUTE

New Course Offered This Winter by Columbus Chapter.

President Hubert E. Lutz of the Columbus chapter, American Institute of Banking, Columbus, announced that an additional course on "Negotiable Instruments" will be added to the institute curriculum this winter. The new division of the school, according to Mr. Lutz, will treat the legal side as well as the physical makeup of bank paper.

George W. Tooill, who has been an instructor in the institute, will conduct classes in the new division. This will be in addition to two divisions of instruction which have existed there before an elementary banking and commercial banking law. Allan Raeburn of the clearing house is announced as the instructor in elementary banking and Mr. Tooill will conduct the class on commercial banking law.

Two other special classes are being planned for the coming winter.

In preparation for the season's activity Mr. Lutz has announced the following appointments of committee chairmen: O. W. Powers, First National bank, chief consul; Miss Clara Casey, Huntington bank, women's activities; Alfred T. Copeland, City National bank, athletics; D. A. Schryver, Citizens bank, entertainment and speakers; David G. Abrams, City National bank, library; Walter T. Reiter, National Bank of Commerce, public speaking and debating; Walter A. Fox, clearing house, public affairs; Raymond Link, Ohio National bank, students' round table.

Executive officers of the chapter comprise a committee on extending and developing the work of the chapter under direction of President Lutz.

Caught On to Sailors' Trick.

If a man's hat blew overboard while leaving port many British skippers would turn back and delay sailing until the next day. It was an omen that one of the crew would be lost over the side during the trip. This sign, however, became discredited, as wily deckhands, desirous of another day ashore with their wives and families, contracted the habit of going aloft and assisting the wind to foretell disaster.

OCEAN MAIL WELL WATCHED

Officers of Experience Keep a Constant Check of the Pouches on Vessels at Sea.

The disappearance of several mail bags from the Atlantic Transportation company's mail steamer, the Minnekahda, is a strange occurrence.

That it is due to an error in checking can almost be considered as impossible, for so often and accurately are the mails counted by postal experts that so large an error could never have occurred, observes London Tit-Bits.

When mails arrive on the quay side for transshipment to the waiting mail boat they are taken out of the closely guarded van and transferred to the floor of the shed alongside which the ship is berthed.

Then comes the work of loading and checking the mails. The task is performed by two independent checkers, one representing the postal authorities, who are responsible for the safety of the mails till they are finally on board the mail boat, the other being the mail officer of the ship, usually the second officer, a man of many years' experience and service in the company.

Each bag is counted as it is carried up the gangway and placed in the mail-room—a specially constructed and burglar-proof compartment—where yet another officer is superintending the stowing and guarding against any possible pilfering.

When the last bag is safely aboard, usually about an hour before sailing time, the tally is reckoned up, and the second officer signs a receipt for the number of bags aboard his ship.

Now the responsibility of the postal authorities is ended. The keys are handed over to the commander, who only parts with them for a few minutes each day, when they are handed to the mail officer, whose duty it is to visit the mail-room and see that everything is secure.

Each day of the voyage across the Atlantic he carries out this duty, and a daily entry is made in the official log-book: "Mail-room visited at noon; everything correct."

When port is reached the same scrupulous care is taken in unloading the mails. The mail train draws up alongside the ship. Each bag is again checked as it is placed in the van, and the second officer breathes a sigh of relief as the postal official signs the receipt that testifies that "the mail of the R. M. S. ——— has been received intact and in good condition."

Norwegian Wedding Festivities.

A Norwegian wedding is a delightful spectacle. The picturesque Norwegian national costume is worn, and the wedding party walks or drives in procession to the church. After the ceremony there is a dance on the village green, with a violin for accompaniment, till it is time for supper. The next day the festivities are resumed and possibly they may extend to the day after.

The Hotel Stenographer
BY ROE FULKERSON

"Next thing we will be getting a rodeo by radio," kidded the Hotel Stenographer.

"Who?" asked the House Detective.

"Everybody," said the girl. "It's a fast age we live in, Kelly. People get married in airplanes, get soused on synthetic gin, we talk to ships out at sea and get notified when our bootlegger gets to the three mile limit. We elect farmers to the senate, who cannot come until they help the wife get in the alfalfa; we have farm blocks, and it is against the law to have an upping block, like used to be in front of every home.

"We live in cells like bees and get stung once a month by the landlord. We hike our skirts up and down like playing 'Simon Says Thumbs Up' according to the wishes of the dressmakers and we pay a cover charge for the privilege of paying for our dinner on somebody's roof.

"We have swapped party line telephone gossip for radio, and do our fighting under the water and up in the air, instead of in the water and on the ground. Everybody's business is everybody's business and real business is nobody's business.

"As soon as a vaudeville comedian makes nice people laugh Avery Hopwood writes a play around him and we pay more money for prize fight than the whole town can raise in six weeks for the Red Cross.

"We pay more attention to the pedigree of Airedales and bull pups than to eugenics and people with money all have children with buck teeth and receding chins.

In hot weather we have electric fans to cool us off and catch head colds from. I bought one day before yesterday and put it in my room and to-night I got the sniffles and a date with my sweetie, and if that isn't a combination to make any girl sore on the whole world I am a billygoat with whiskers down to my knees."

Novel Treatment.

A whirlpool bath is the novel treatment applied at a hospital in Manchester, England, for cases of rheumatism, following typhoid and dysentery. The tank, large enough for 12 men, contains 4 feet of water and is provided with seats, on which the bathers are immersed to their necks. The temperature is kept at 93 degrees Fahrenheit, just below that of the body. The room is quiet and dimly lighted, and after an hour in the bath the men go to rest rooms.

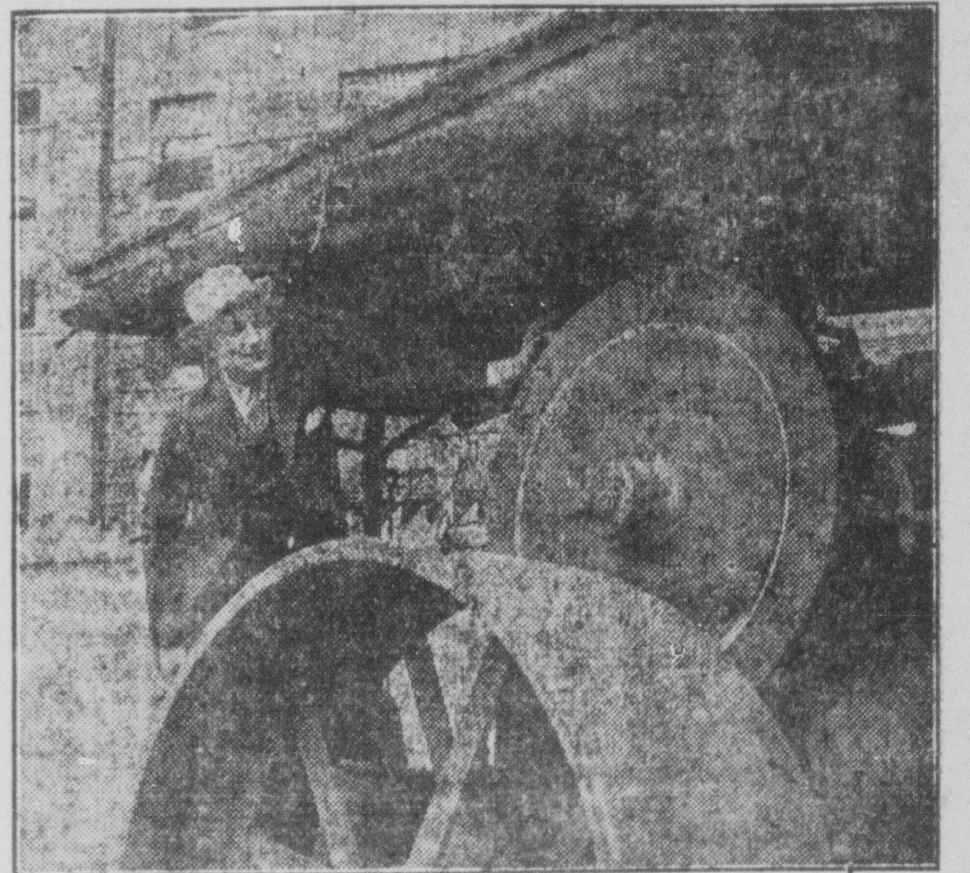

Monopolizes It Himself.

It sometimes happens that a married man has a great deal to say, but his wife won't let him say it.

God in Nature.

More than ever we need to appreciate the works of God as shown in the material world. A blue sky, flickering shadows on the grass, the grace in the flight of a bird—these things should give us the sense that God is still in the world. Let us listen to the voices of the brook. Let us watch the waves of the lake. We may or may not know what is on the farther, unseen shore, but we can build mental pictures of great beauty. There are thousands of beautiful pictures all around us if we have eyes to see and soul to appreciate them.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

CINCINNATI BUSINESS MEN WORK
FOR SUCCESS OF BIG EXPOSITION

Warner Sayers, President Cincinnati Fall Festival and Industrial Exposition runs a roller over the grounds.

Cincinnati business men have rolled up their sleeves and gone to work in order that all might be in readiness on August 25, when the million dollar Fall Festival and Industrial Exposition is opened.

Men worth thousands, and some of them worth millions, of dollars, are working night and day. Warner Sayers, who is president of the big exposition, is operating a steam roller to enable other men to do other work.

One of the biggest features will be two solid squares of Agricultural Machinery, a model country town, a model farm covering a half acre of ground; a miniature railroad operating in the model town and hundreds of farming devices that will interest not only the farmer but his entire family.

In addition there will be hundreds of industrial exhibits showing interesting features in the manufacturing of articles which are of educational value to the old, as well as the young. Visitors to the big Festival which continues for fifteen consecutive days, including Sundays, will be taken care of with every facility which the big city has to offer. Motorists will be given an opportunity of camping at Cincinnati Free Tourist Camp, and Traffic Officers have been led to believe that they might give the visitor the benefit of the doubt wherever possible.

LAST SAD RITES

Many Friends From Distance Attend Funeral of Cary Short.

Hundreds of friends from all over the state, city and county and points in West Virginia, crowded the auditorium of the stately Methodist church Monday afternoon to do homage and pay respect to Cary Short.

The funeral services of the man who in life commanded such a wide circle of friendship, showed how popular he was, his friends did not forget him in death. It was more than a funeral ceremony. Seldom have services for a man in private life drawn such a large crowd. The church was full of strangers who had come hundreds of miles to pay their respects to a man whom they loved and respected. It was an unusual outpouring of people, noticeable from the fact that the man to whom they did honor never held public office and was not a member of any fraternal or secret society. Feelingly did the officiating minister, Rev. Edwin K. Johnson, refer to the happy home life, the man's honesty in dealing with his fellowman, his successful business career and pointed to the fact that he was the type of man of which his family or any community could feel proud, as he was a self educated and self made man.

Rev. George E. Tift, of Nelsonville, a former pastor of the church assisted in the services.

A quartet composed of Mrs. E. K. Johnson, Miss Stella Grimes, E. S. Roper and Meeker Terwilliger sang "Abide With Me," "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me" and "Thy Will be Done." Miss Alys Seitz was the organist. At the mortuary "Rock of Ages" was sung by the quartet.

The display of floral tributes was unusual and this alone showed the esteem in which the dead was held by the living. The pallbearers were intimate friends of the deceased Charles P. Outhwaite and William Cross, of Columbus; W. A. Smith, of Allentown, Pennsylvania; Dr. Ernest Layne of Huntington, West Virginia and L. E. Miller, Edward C. Reector, Dr. J. J. Rooney and Bernard W. Young, of this city.

Among the out of town people attending the funeral were: George Sambrook, Cleveland; Thomas Bradley and C. E. Chatterton, of Sistersville, West Virginia; John Lemon, of Millersburg; Mr. Eckert and Dr. Ernest Layne, of Huntington, West Virginia; C. W. Cummings, of Uniontown, Pennsylvania; Clark Campbell, Will J. Rindsfoos, James F. Taylor, Dr. and Mrs. Chaney, G. M. Short, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Chaney, D. L. Thompson, Mr. Van Hook, Mr. Klunk, C. W. Pavey, Dr. C. W. Borland, Guy Johnson, of Columbus; John P. Phillips Sr., of Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. Will Anderson of Marysville; Mrs. Barbara Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bitzer of Dayton and Rev. and Mrs. B. R. Heller, of Vermillion, Ohio; Porter Haines, Charles Winner, Jacob Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Metzger, of Chillicothe.

Merry musical minstrel men come September 6, at the Grand theater with J. A. Coburns company in its twenty-fifth year. It is said to be the best performance "Cobe" has ever produced. Everything new, songs, jokes, costumes, scenery, acts and many new faces. Real hard working capable clever performers, clean comedy, fine singing, clever dancing. Modern and oldtime minstrelsy. Every man has his place his work, it's the first thing you notice, they all work. And they enjoy it. An appreciative satisfied audience is the guarantee of a performers merit, an attractions excellence. "Make them work, make them come back, they like it, get your money's worth." How many patrons have heard Manager Coburn say nightly as they enter the theater? He likes to see his company please and their efforts appreciated. That's what he is there for. The show you know.

PICKAWAY IN FIRST PLACE

Leads in Production of Both Main Staple Crops, Corn and Wheat.

Darke Heads the List in Hogs, Cream and Eggs and Ashtabula is First in Buckwheat, Honey and Dairy Cattle - Wood is First in Beets, Oats

Statistical analysis of Ohio agriculture, undertaken a year ago at the Ohio State university for the guidance of county agricultural agents, is now nearing completion. Ranking of counties according to volume of production for leading farm commodities shows, Drake and Ashtabula more frequently at the top of the list than any other counties; Pickaway county, however, leads in production of both the main staple crops, corn and wheat.

Darke county leads in three important farm commodities, hogs, cream and eggs and stands second in the production of corn and dark tobacco. Ashtabula county stands first in production of buckwheat, honey and dairy cattle. Wood county is first in the production of sugar beets and oats. These are the only counties that stand first in the production of more than one farm commodity.

In apples, Lawrence county leads; in vegetable crops, Hamilton; in potatoes, Portage; in grapes, Cuyahoga; in burley tobacco, Brown; in dark tobacco, Montgomery; in market milk, Trumbull; in sheep, Knox; in alfalfa, Logan; in onions, Hardin, and in maple syrup, Geauga.

Rankings on the basis of yield to the acre, rather than of total production are now under way. First computations show that the leading corn counties on the basis are Clark, Greene and Preble in the order named.

WORLD'S RECORD

Irvin Millar's Litter of Pigs Weighed 2,500 Pounds at 180 Days.

Seventy farmers from all parts of Pickaway county were present to witness the weighing of the Big Type Poland China litter belonging to Irvin Millar, of Madison township at eight o'clock Friday morning, August 24. The litter tipped the scales at exactly 2500 pounds.

To the best of our knowledge this is a world's record for the first litter out of a gilt to be weighed up at exactly 180 days of age. Two litters in Indiana last year weighed more than this amount, but both were from mature sows.

Short talks were made by Dr. Carl W. Gay, head of the Animal Husbandry department, Ohio State university; John W. Wulchert, extension specialist, Ohio State university and N. E. Shaw, editor of the National Stockman and Farmer.

These men pointed out that the Millar litter showed that it was possible to feed out hogs of proper type without breaking them down, so as to make them of no value for breeding purposes. The litter is considered to be of the most approved type of hogs today, and the gains that they have made to be exhibited in finished condition show clearly that the big type hog will make rapid gains. Every pig was right up on its toes, had a good back and deep sides; altho they were criticised by some for being too high off the ground, which is characteristic of the big type hog.

At the solicitations of those present, arrangements were made with G. R. Lewis, manager of the Ohio State fair to have this litter on exhibit during the entire State fair. Farmers from Pickaway county, and in fact from all over Ohio who failed to see this litter last Friday, will have an opportunity to view them all week during the fair. A later article will give details as to the weekly gains and feeds given to this litter during the making of the record.

Omens on Horses.

There are several omens dealing with horses. A warrior likes his mount to neigh before going into battle, as this is a sign of victory. To meet a piebald horse is lucky, and if you meet another soon after you may express any wish and get it granted. A horse with a white star on its forehead is another lucky sign, but to meet a white horse means bad luck, unless one spits at it. This averts the ill luck. Another bad sign is for a horse to neigh opposite the door of a house. It means sickness to one of the inmates.

Discovers Ice Cream Soda.

The honor of discovering ice-cream soda is generally given to Robert M. Green, who served the delicacy to the semi-centennial celebration of Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, in the summer of 1874, and advertised it at that time as something absolutely new.

Fight Intruders.

Wild creatures often have well-defined ideas as to where they belong and, as if certain places belonged to them, will fight off rivals. A male humming bird will take possession of a California garden and be ready all day to cross swords with any other of his kind that comes that way. "Cross swords" is a good expression for one can hear the clashing of the long bills as the birds soar high into the air. In the end the intruder is driven off. The male ostrich on a South African farm draws imaginary boundaries to its "land," and will attack even a human being who crosses them during the breeding season. These birds are dangerous customers, but the farmer, in making his rounds, is never attacked by more than one at a time.—Sportsman's Digest.

The Cent That Went to Church.

A silver dollar and a 1-cent piece once started an argument which deteriorated, as so many disputes do, into the purely personal. At this stage, the big coin thought it would squelch its opponent beyond resurrection by declaring:

"I am one hundred times as good as you are—one hundred times as good as you are."

But the insignificant cent came back at him with:

"Like fun you are! I go to church every Sunday."—Everybody's Magazine.

ANNUAL PICNIC

Of St. Philip's Sunday School at Dewey Park, August 29.

The Sunday school and members of the church are planning to hold their annual picnic on Wednesday, August 29. Everybody will meet promptly at 9 o'clock in the morning at the Parish House where automobiles will be provided. Arrangements have been made with the proper authorities and Dewey park has been secured. The weather is always an important factor in planning a picnic but if it should rain, the picnic will be held in the Parish house.

Weller For Coolidge.

Baltimore, Aug. 28.—Unqualified approval of Coolidge for president in 1924 was expressed by United States Senator Orrington E. Weller of Maryland, in a statement in which he termed Coolidge "heir to the policies and organization of President Harding and his logical successor." As Senator Weller is leader and spokesman for the Republican party in Maryland, the statement was accepted as an indication he would endeavor to have the delegation to the Republican national convention instructed to vote as a unit for Coolidge.

HIT BY TRAIN

Automobile of Warner Rhoades Wrecked at Railroad Crossing

Warner Rhoades, of Pickaway township, had a narrow escape from death this morning at the Mound street grade crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad, when his automobile was struck by the east bound passenger train.

Mr. Rhoades was coming to the city driving a Reo car to deliver a can of cream. As he neared the crossing he did not observe the train until the front end of his machine was over the first running rail and it was too late to reverse his engine and get out of harm's way.

The pilot of the engine hit the auto a fearful blow and tossed the car into the air. When it came down it was turned in the opposite direction to which it had been going. Mr. Rhoades was pitched out a distance of twenty feet but was not severely injured. One of the queer things that happened was that in the jolt his pocketbook and bunch of keys were forced out of his pockets and the lid on the can of cream was pulled off and Mr. Rhoades was completely drenched by the contents of the can.

The engine of the auto is a complete wreck as it received the full force of the blow from the locomotive.

EVEN THE AUTO

By IDA M. TUPPER

(© 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"BUT, father, you are so unreasonable! It's just because you have lived on a farm all your life, and are prejudiced against city people. Your ideas are so old-fashioned. Why, father, people in the city simply couldn't exist without automobiles, and as for Vaughn Norwood— Well, I'm sorry to displease you, father, but I have no intention of ending my friendship with him."

After delivering this declaration, Jane Witherspoon, with a defiant toss of her curly head, returned to the cookies she was skillfully cutting for the baking pan. She had recently graduated from college, where according to her father (rated the wealthiest man in the valley) she had acquired "notions."

The deacon's strong aversion for these "new-fangled" city things was demonstrated by his emphatic refusal to buy a car. The faithful mare, Roxy, whom the deacon had raised from a colt, he declared to be plenty fast enough for him, as he had no intention of endangering his life in one of "them thar road wreckers."

Jane's outburst was due to her father's command that she never step foot inside Vaughn Norwood's car, and, further, he didn't want the young "whippersnapper" to "set foot on his land." Jane had never defied her parent before, although she had many times been exceedingly annoyed by his exacting prejudices. But this was more than even she could tolerate.

That night as Jane lay dreaming of a wonderful motor trip with Vaughn, crossing the country by gleaming lakes and towering mountains, her father's agitated, "Jane, Jane, come quick—mother—," shattered the dream into grim reality.

The girl was accustomed to such calls, as Nancy Witherspoon, a delicate, flowerlike little woman, had an unruly heart. After a glance at her mother, a brief test of the pulse, Jane ran for the strychnine. Her brain reeled momentarily when she saw the empty bottle. No stimulant, and mother . . . Like lightning flashed the only possible chance of saving her beloved parent.

Grasping the telephone, she called the bearer of her father's animosity. "Vaughn, Jane speaking. Rush with strychnine—your car—mother." Her faltering voice told the story, and he needed no further explanation.

Her father, suffering intensely, as his wife was the idol of his heart, groaned in dismay when Jane disclosed the empty phial.

"Oh, Jane, what can we do? There wouldn't be time with old Roxy!"

Jane shook her head in negation. "I've telephoned Vaughn, father, to rush out in his car. He ought to make it in ten minutes if he can get the medicine."

The man first glared at her, then nodded his head in submission.

As he patted Nancy's ice-cold hand he crooned, "Just hold on a few minutes more, dear, just a few minutes."

She smiled at them wanly and Jane worked over her almost frantically. Would he never come? Nancy grew paler and paler, her breath came in fluttering gasps.

The whir of an engine, the door opened and Vaughn handed Jane the medicine. She quickly administered to her mother. All enmity was forgotten between Vaughn and Witherspoon in their united efforts to revive Nancy.

After several hours, when life had been restored and his wife was tranquilly sleeping, the old man extended his hand to the departing Norwood.

"Vaughn, I've been an obdurate old codger. Boy, I can't thank you— Tears of gratitude trickled down the elder man's wrinkled cheeks as he continued: "You've helped me keep the dearest thing in life to me, and just to get even with you I'll buy one of your ding-busted road-wreckers."

When the Deacon drove out in his new car and announced that Jane was soon to become Mrs. Norwood, the sewing circle held two meetings in one week to fathom out how it ever happened.

But the Deacon knew that "a friend in need is a friend indeed"—even the auto.

Tame Deer in British Columbia.

An interesting story comes from British Columbia by the roundabout way of the Yorkshire (England) Post, as follows: A settler took up his abode on a small rocky island. After he had been there a few days, a solitary deer paid him a visit. He put down some cornstalks for it, and, later, it brought a second. Food was provided regularly, and by the end of the year thirty were in the habit of coming, swimming, as he learned, from the mainland. The animals soon lost all fear, and clustered round the dwelling as cattle might, some of the more daring knocking at the door to announce their presence.

Quite Disappointed.

She reached Newquay after dark and was met by friends who motored her to their country home on a hill-side.

The next morning she walked into the garden, quite prepared to be astounded by the grandeur of Cornwall. Down an avenue of tall trees she caught a glimpse of sky-blue water.

"What is that water?" she asked.

"That," replied her hostess, proudly, "is the Atlantic ocean."

"Oh, I had an idea it was larger."

EDISON-FORD PLAN'S
ATTACK ON INTEREST

Abolition of Rent No More Plausible Than Abolition of Pay on Loans, Expert Shows.

It is no more unreasonable to pay interest on a loan of money than to pay rent on a house, declares William T. Foster, Director of the Pollack Foundation for Economic Research, in exposing the fallacy of the attack on interest charges by Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison in their commodity money scheme to do away with the present financial system. Mr. Foster's argument is reviewed in the present article which is one of a series prepared by the American Bankers Association.

"The Ford-Edison commodity money plan is regarded as a step toward the abolition of all interest charges," Mr. Foster says. "Interest," says the Dearborn Independent, "is a tax that few ancient tyrants would have dared impose. Interest in actual modern practice is a contrivance whereby all production is taxed by parasites, and whereby money is given a supremacy over men, material and management which it cannot sustain."

Renting Money

"But is there really anything more terrible about paying for the use of money than about paying for the use of anything else? Suppose a farmer finds himself in need of a harvesting machine, and without enough money to buy one. In that case he can either borrow a machine of Neighbor Brown or borrow money and buy a machine. The farmer would consider it right to pay in some way for the use of the machine. Why should he expect to borrow money—which is loaned in the markets in payment for the same machine—without paying for the use of the money?"

"Now let us suppose that the farmer uses the machine so successfully that he saves a thousand dollars. With that money he can buy a farm and he can let Neighbor Brown have the use of it. Neighbor Brown naturally would expect to pay rent. Instead of buying the farm, however, he could lend the thousand dollars to his neighbor in order that his neighbor might buy the farm. In that case Neighbor Brown should expect to pay for the rent of the money. All this seems clear. When the transactions are as simple as these it is plain that there is just as great propriety in charging for the use of money as in charging for the use of things that money will buy.

Loaned Money Builds a School
"We may assume, however, that the farmer does not want to buy land and Neighbor Brown does not want to borrow money. In that case the farmer deposits his thousand dollars in a bank and the bank pays him interest for the use of his money. But the bank can pay interest only if it makes profitable use of his money. Now the bank finds that the city needs a high-school building, and has decided to borrow enough money to construct it. In order to obtain the money the city has issued bonds, each of which is a promise to pay one thousand dollars at a specified date, and interest in the meantime at a specified rate. The bank buys one of these bonds. Thus the farmer has had a part in providing the city with a school building; and the farmer has just as much right to expect interest for the use of his money as though he had loaned the money directly or indirectly to Neighbor Brown."

"CAPITALISTS"—AND
DON'T KNOW IT

A good many people who rail against capital are beating their own backs. Some are savings bank depositors; some have shares in building and loan associations; some have bought a liberty bond; some have ordered a stock of goods for their store. All of them, without knowing it, have performed a great miracle, for they have turned the work of their hands or their brains into a new product which while it helps them, is helping thousands of others. Every one of them is a capitalist as most of us are—unless we are tramps or paupers or ne'er-do-wells—and we may well be proud of the name. For capitalism, instead of being the devilish invention of a few selfish interests, is the great material force that has lifted millions from poverty, degradation and slavery.

Like other human institutions, capital can be abused. So, too, can eyesight and health and education and love. Part of America's great job is to remedy and prevent such abuses. Sane people, however, do not cut off their feet to get rid of their corns.

Capital is today's surplus. It is what gives us a better start tomorrow than we had today. If we don't save it, we don't have it, and when we have it, it is useless until it is put to work.

If thrift is right, then it is right that people should acquire funds as the result of their industry and self-denial. But money that is merely hoarded is like water that becomes stagnant; it is harmful, not helpful. When money is put to work, it is like water power; it turns the wheels of industry, increases employment and raises the general level of comfort.

When every producer can create a surplus and that surplus can be gathered into a common fund and put to work for the common good we shall have reached an ideal condition.—From "The Greatest Family in the World."

Let Children Read Aloud.

Reading aloud in the home is of the utmost value. Let the children listen, and let them do some of the reading, even of interesting grownup books. It gives them not only a larger scope of ideas, but self-confidence in the use of a rapidly growing vocabulary. The right use of the mother-tongue is a very valuable accomplishment. But it takes time and pains to acquire it. And it begins at the very beginning.—Exchange.

BETTER CITIZENS

Amendment of Marriage Laws Suggested by Eugenics Committee.

A program for the "practical application of eugenic principles" to the improvement of the citizens of America, has been made public by the Eugenic committee of the United States.
suggests segregation of defective types, sterilization, laws encouraging parenthood by those endowed with good hereditary traits, and enactments rationalizing marriage and divorce regulations, as among the more important aims in the field of legislation.

Inquiry into the eugenic elements in birth control is mentioned as one of the most important research problems. More than 200 activities for eugenic societies and welfare workers are outlined.

The program was arranged by a subcommittee of the American organization headed by Professor Henry E.
Crampton, of Columbia university.
Other members of the subcommittee are Professors Irving Fisher and Roswell Johnson and Dr. Harry Laughlin.
The national body is composed of prominent scientists, educators, public officials, churchmen and social workers and is affiliated with the international commission on eugenics, whose headquarters is in London.

"For the first time in history," Professor Fisher said, "a unified, co-ordinated, practicable and comprehensive scheme for the conservation of human resources is offered. We have heard much recently of the importance of conservation as related to material things. This program offers conservation of the richest traits of human character and the finest types of human physique, without either of which man cannot attain the fullness of life which is the end of human destiny."

War, immigration, farm credits, protective tariffs, transportation, labor unions and housing all are mentioned in the program as problems for eugenic research.

The automobile is mentioned as a factor in rural eugenics, "since it tends to reduce inbreeding from pro-pinquity, and to widen the range of marriage selection in rural districts."

The eugenic aspect of higher education is presented in the question "Are universities attracting the most intelligent elements in the population and virtually sterilizing them, both students and teachers?"

Concerning the present general tendency of migration from rural communities to the cities, the report asks if the big centers attract "the super-intelligent and able bodied young persons from the farms, or the inferior?"

"If the superior stocks are being driven off by present tendencies to the sterile life of city commerce, this constitutes a dysgenic drain upon the population," the report says. "It is estimated that in four generations the 50 per cent of the present population which is on the farms tends to become 88 per cent of the total stock."

It then is pointed out that if these two tendencies are demonstrated by research to be continually operative, the result would be that close to 900 out of every 1000 of American population four generations hence would be of the stock of the lower mental and physical types of the present time.

MANY DOCTORS

Present at Second Postmortem Examination of Remains of Cary Short.

The second postmortem examination of the remains of Cary Short was held this morning at the undertaking rooms of the Albaugh company. The first examination was held last week by Dr. D. V. Courtright and Dr. W. D. Jones of Clarksburg. It seems the agents of the insurance companies were not satisfied with the conclusions of the first postmortem, even after a pathological examination was made of a blood clot by Dr.
Coons, of Columbus.

Those present at the examination today representing the family of Mr. Short were Doctors Luke, Brock and Borland, of Columbus; Doctors
H. D. Jackson, Howard Jones, Lloyd
Jones and D. V. Courtright, of this city; Dr. D. V. Mead, of Cincinnati;
W. D. Jones of Clarksburg and Dr.
Brundige, of Columbus.

The accident insurance companies were represented by Doctors Scott, VanBuskirk and Foreman and Mc-
Campbell, of Columbus and Doctors
Heffner and McKinnon, of this city.

The agents representing the accident insurance companies who carried policies on Mr. Short's life were
A. Hulse Hays, of this city, representing the American Casualty company;
A. W. Wagner of Columbus, representing the Globe Indemnity company;
Archie Houstie, the Pacific Mutual;
F. A. O'Donnell, the Travelers' Accident company and the Connecticut
General Accident company.

HOLD QUEER JOBS

Woman Testifies She Pokes
Fires for a Living.

London Firm Supplies Attendants for Dogs, While Good Conversationalists Are Always in Demand.

The woman who stated in court recently that she earned a living by poking fires is only one of the many hundreds of people who follow occupations of which most folks have never heard.

This curious form of employment is common in big cities where Jews are numerous. By rabbinical law Jews are forbidden to mend or tend to any fires on their Sabbath. As many as 50 houses may be visited by these professional firemakers, who receive a small fee from each.

Strange as this may be, there are many stranger ways of making a living. For example, a good conversationalist need never be "down and out." Some employment agencies are always on the lookout for interesting talkers to entertain insomnia victims at night. A sufferer from this complaint actually pays a retaining fee to a woman well known in the West End of London for her bright and vivacious conversation.

Just as little known is the work of men who take dogs for an airing.
There is in London at least one firm which, at the shortest notice, supplies dog attendants, who may be called by women to take charge of their pets in the parks.

This strange "profession" is not such a sinecure as it would appear.
Thefts of valuable dogs have been increasing very rapidly in recent times; and the thieves are very ingenious in their methods. So where valuable animals are taken for an airing only people who are up to the tricks of these pests can be entrusted with them.

Another little known way of earning a living is the work of the searchers at the British museum. These men are employed chiefly in looking up references dealing with heraldry, genealogy, and the history of ancestral mansions or of regiments—anything and everything indeed.

Many of the searches have been employed in the queerest tasks imaginable. In one case, a three years' quest produced evidence, found in the rolls of some ancient parchments, regarding the disputed ownership of a rich seam of coal in Yorkshire. This resulted in a gain of £37,000 for the man's employer.

It is not only in London that one finds queer trades; they abound in many parts of the country.—London

A Responsive Chord.

Betty Brown, the prettiest girl in the village, was blest with a father who snubbed all the young men who came to see her. One evening a bashful young man named Samuel Green called.

After the trio had sat together in silence for some time, the young man ventured to remark:

"It looks as though it might rain, sir."

"It's not going to rain," was Father
Brown's gruff reply.

For nearly half an hour there was complete silence. Finally the old man's curiosity got the better of him.

"Who are you?" he growled.

"Samuel Green," was the response.

"What? Not old Tom Green's son?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, then," exclaimed the father, thawing, "it may rain, it may rain."—

PINCHOT MEETS OPERATORS

Continues Efforts to Bring Warring Factions Together.

WOULD PREVENT SUSPENSION

Governor Declares He Realizes That the Rights of the Operators and the Miners Neither Should be Arbitrarily Abridged Nor Denied—Bishop Hoban at the Executive Mansion in Harrisburg.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 28.—Governor Pinchot today met the anthracite operators' committee in his effort to bring the warring factions together.

In his opening remarks the governor repeated the warning he had uttered before the miners' committee yesterday. "The public interest demands that this controversy shall be settled," Pinchot declared, "and that a suspension of mining shall be avoided. The thing is possible—it must be done."

Governor Pinchot said that he realized that the rights of neither side should be arbitrarily abridged nor denied. "I recognize the right of the mine workers," he said, "to organize for their own protection, and to fair and decent conditions of living. I am fully aware that the strike is a right which should not be arbitrarily abridged or denied. The exercise of this right, however, should be made unnecessary by the use of orderly and reasonable methods of adjustment. I recognize the right of mine operators to a just return on their investment and their managerial ability. I propose," he said in conclusion, "to treat these conferences with each side as wholly confidential. What is said to me by one side will not be revealed to the other, either now or later, unless by mutual agreement."

Governor Pinchot following the three-hour conference with the miners' committee refused to state how far he had gone with his plans for strike settlement or how the miners' committee had accepted his proffered help. Philip H. Murray, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, who is acting for President John L. Lewis, III at his hotel in Atlantic City, also refused to talk in "deference to the governor's wishes."

Governor Pinchot had at the executive mansion Bishop Hoban of Scranton, 70, friend of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, friend of the miners, and aide to Roosevelt in settling the anthracite strike of 1902. He intimated that he knew something of a like conference which Father Curran of Wilkesbarre was holding with John L. Lewis at Atlantic City.

MAYOR REESE TESTIFIES

Fate of Youngstown Officials Rests In Hands of the Governor.

Columbus, Aug. 28.—Governor Donahue has taken under advisement the cases of William G. Reese and James Watkins, respectively mayor and police chief of Youngstown. Failure to enforce laws was the charge against each. It probably will be several days before the governor will announce his decision.

Trial of Mayor Reese closed with his admission that he would not have had Watkins as his chief of police had it not been for civil service laws, which protected Watkins in his job. Watkins had been chief when Reese became mayor. Reese also testified that he believed that if Watkins had been as zealous in enforcing the law as the mayor himself had been, conditions in Youngstown "might have been better."

Reese previously had testified that Chief Watkins had warned him that they "might be framed" if they went after the law violators too strenuously.

Reduction of the police force since he became mayor, necessitated because of the city's financial condition, was stressed in his testimony, as was also his insistence that he attempted to comply with every request for raids and took care of every complaint made to him.

Honolulu as Aviation Center.

London, Aug. 28.—A dispatch from Sydney, New South Wales, says the Pan-Pacific science congress discussed a proposal to make Honolulu the Pacific aviation center, communicating with North and South America, Japan and Australia. The reports of experts said that from Honolulu it is possible to reach the United States in 52 flying hours, Japan 72 hours, Australia 112 hours and South America 133 hours.

FIRPO CONFIDENT

Argentine Heavyweight Declines to Make Prediction, However.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28.—"I am confident, but I never make any predictions," said Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, when asked what he thought of his fight with Jack Dempsey Sept. 14. "All I can promise is that I'll fight, I'll do my best whatever the outcome," he added.

Horatio Lavelle, the challenger's manager, grew angry when he was told that some sport followers were charging that the fight was a "set-up" for Dempsey. "Firpo has a record that speaks for itself," Lavelle said. "He will be 27 years old next October 11. He has been fighting five years. He lost his first fight on a knockout. Since then he has had 26 battles. Of these he won every one, 22 by the knockout route and four on decisions. He is a match for Dempsey at Dempsey's best."

Negro Slain.

New Lexington, O., Aug. 28.—A posse is searching the vicinity of San Toy for Major Stovall, colored, of Belaire, who is said to have shot and killed William Bailey, 38, of San Toy, also colored. Stovall and Bailey are said by police to have quarreled.

BELGIAN NOTE DISAPPOINTING

Does Not Contain a Single Constructive Proposal.

MAKES CLAIMS TO PRIORITY

Also Proposes the Substitution of a New Percentage Agreement Based on Material Damage Only and Excluding Damages to Persons. Would Cut Out the "Notes" and Resume Secret Diplomacy.

London, Aug. 28.—The Belgian note in answer to the recent British memorandum, which arrived here, while it tries to be as mild and cordial as possible, is pathetically helpless.

The note does not contain a single constructive proposal and makes not even the slightest reference to any impartial international commission to investigate Germany's capacity to pay.

Though the note overflows with assurances of gratitude to Britain for her help, and with expressions of sympathy for Britain at the burden of unemployment and trade depression, and repudiating any idea that Belgium wishes to deprive Britain of her dues, the note proposes the substitution of a new percentage agreement based on material damage only and excluding damages to persons. This plan, while nearly doubling Belgium's share and materially increasing that of France, would seriously depreciate that of Britain.

About one-third of the note is devoted to a discussion of the Belgian claim to priority, citing numerous diplomatic declarations in support of the claims, including one from ex-President Wilson, together with a summary of facts and figures, and a list of concessions made by Belgium in previous conferences from the Spa congress to the London meeting in December, 1922.

While repudiating any aim to assist the annexation movement on the Rhine, the passage relative to the progressive evacuation of the Ruhr has been emasculated by Premier Poincare and left painfully vague. The note winds up with the hope that there will be no more notes, but that there will be a return to private conversations or a resumption of secret diplomacy.

CHAIRMAN HULL RETURNS TO DUTY

Foretells Issues of the Next Presidential Campaign.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Chairman Cordell Hull of the Democratic national committee has returned to duty after an illness which began before the death of President Harding, and the assumption of the presidency by Mr. Coolidge.

The change in the administration and titular leadership of the Republican party confronts the Democratic chief with the necessity of devising a new scheme of campaign strategy. Chairman Hull asserts that the change in the office of the executive does not change the fact that the presidential campaign of 1924 will be fought out on questions of party policy. Mr. Coolidge having announced at the outset that he would carry out the policies of his predecessor, the issues, it is held, remain unchanged, except as they may be supplemented by the record of the new regime.

This condition of affairs, according to Chairman Hull, insures that among the outstanding issues of the campaign will be the tariff act; merchant marine policy; relief in transportation and transportation costs; tax reduction; reduction of high cost of living; prosecution of profiteers and agricultural relief legislation.

Searching For Two Women.

New York, Aug. 28.—The police are searching for two freshly dressed young women, who were in the apartment of John A. Sutphen, a private secretary, when he died, supposedly of "prohibition rum." The coroner found cyanide of potassium had killed him. Death seemed to have come unexpectedly to Sutphen, the coroner's report said. His body was found lying easily on a couch and a freshly lighted pipe was held in his hand.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Salary Boost Action Deferred.
Columbus, Aug. 28.—The state emergency board deferred until later in the week action on the demand of penitentiary guards for increased wages and the recommendation of Welfare Director Harper that salaries of all institution guards and attendants be increased 20 per cent. The board decide not to act until all the members could be present. State Senator Atwood, chairman of the senate finance committee, the only board member absent, is expected to be back from his vacation in two or three days.

Dentist Slain.
Cleveland, Aug. 28.—The body of Horace W. Hamilton, his face badly mutilated, was found at the foot of an outside stairway leading to the basement of Public hall here. His hands were marked with knife cuts and in one of them was clenched an open jack knife. Police believe he was attacked and dragged to the foot of the stairway. Hamilton, a dentist, was employed in a laboratory here. A negro suspect is under arrest.

Inhaled Monoxide Gas.
Toledo, Aug. 28.—Harvey Mominee, 28, fisherman, is in a serious condition from burns and monoxide gas poisoning at his home here after being rescued with the body of his dead partner from their disabled motor boat. Mominee's partner, Bert Pete, 53, died from inhaling monoxide gas fumes which filled the boat's cabin when the motor's exhaust pipe exploded.

Indian Skeleton Unearthed.
Newark, O., Aug. 28.—Workmen taking gravel from a pit near Utica, this county, for use on road work, unearthed three skeletons, apparently those of prehistoric Indians. Two of the skeletons were in a sitting position, while the third apparently was resting across their knees.

Slashed by Holdup Men.
Cleveland, Aug. 28.—Charles Dorido, 41, is in Charity hospital fatally wounded, following an attack in which he was slashed almost beyond recognition by two holdup men. Dorido told police that the men attacked him with knives when he refused to hand over his roll. Four suspects were arrested.

Woman Loses Life.
Columbus, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Sam Lantania was killed instantly and her husband and daughter injured, when the machine in which they were riding skidded on a wet pavement and overturned. The woman's skull was fractured.

Wheat in Ross County.
Chillicothe, O., Aug. 28.—Ross county farm bureau has just tabulated figures showing that the average yield of wheat per acre in Ross county is 21 bushels. Some farmers reported a yield of 40 bushels an acre.

Turned Over in Ditch.
Newark, O., Aug. 28.—Charles Hising, garage man at Hanover, east of here, was killed when his auto skidded on an interurban track and turned over in a ditch. His son, Harry, was cut about the head.

New Japanese Premier.
Tokyo, Aug. 28.—Viscount Yasuoka Uchida has been appointed premier to succeed the late Baron Kato.

FINDER OF GOLD DISAPPEARS

Money Believed the Property of Grover Bergdoll.

GOVERNMENT WOULD SEIZE IT

Agents of Department of Justice, Well Versed and Experienced in the Bergdoll Case, to Investigate the Whole Affair—Money Unearthed by Road Laborer Near Hagerstown, Maryland.

Washington, Aug. 28.—If the money, said to be $105,000 in gold, found near Hagerstown, Md., should prove to be the property of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the United States government will seek to obtain possession of it, Alien Property Custodian Miller said, and added:

"In May, 1921, when the alien property custodian seized the property of Bergdoll, in response to President Harding's orders, it was done within the scope of the trading with the enemy act. The seizure of the Bergdoll property has been successfully defended by the government in all court actions brought so far.

"Under the Knox-Porter peace resolution, adopted July 2, 1921, a provision was contained therein that any demand made by the government through the alien property custodian, covering enemy property, was in full force and effect for property that had not been actually reduced to possession, even though a state of peace existed by reason of the resolution.

"The demands served on banks, Mrs. Bergdoll and other individuals known to have Bergdoll's property, would cover the so-called sum of money which Bergdoll was reported to have hidden in the vicinity of Hagerstown.

"Arrangements have been made with William J. Burns, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, for agents well versed and experienced in the Bergdoll case to investigate the whole occurrence in the vicinity of Hagerstown."

According to reports reaching here from Hagerstown, Lee Houser, finder of the money, has disappeared. At his house it was said he had "gone fishing," but no information as to his definite whereabouts was obtainable. Houser unearthed the money while working on the highway.

A secret passage leading from the room which Bergdoll occupied at the Vivian hotel here was discovered for the first time. It probably explains how the draft dodger was able to make his second escape when the hotel was surrounded by federal agents.

BOYS ROASTED ALIVE

Tied to a Tree While at Play and Match Applied by Other Boys.

Belmar, N. J., Aug. 28.—The police have Dick Foreman and Caleb Hubbard in jail, wondering what charge, if any, they will place against the boys, following the fatal termination of a game of "Red Indian" in which Hubbard's brother, William, and Charles Spindler, were burned to death at the stake. Foreman is 17 and Hubbard 18. Hubbard's brother was 16 and Spindler 11.

Foreman and Caleb Hubbard were "scouts" and "captured" William Hubbard and the Spindler boy, tying them to a tree and piling excelsior about their feet. Spindler and the other captive laughed and thought it fine fun. Foreman, crying, told the police they intended to light the excelsior and then kick it away from the captives. But neither realized that the ground around the tree was saturated with kerosene from the nearby Coast Gas company's plant. At the first flash from the match there was a burst of flames around the two captive boys. The frightened "scouts" frantically fought to save the two boys tied to the tree, but they were soon blazing torches. Death soon relieved their suffering.

Kills Son and Self.

Rochester, Pa., Aug. 28.—Charles Stewart, 42, treasurer of the Rochester Trust company, shot and killed his 14-year-old son, Horace, probably fatally wounded another son, Walter, 9, and then ended his own life. A year's constant brooding over the death of his wife was believed to have driven Stewart insane.

Three Persons Killed.

Toledo, Aug. 28.—Joseph Lanan's automobile struck raised car tracks, skidded and turned over in a ditch at Point Place, near this city. Jacob Ohlinger, 60; Peter Sweltzer, 35, and his wife, Elizabeth Sweltzer, 35, were killed.

HUSBAND SOUGHT

Alleged Slayer of Bride Not Believed to Have Killed Himself.

Battle Creek, Mich., Aug. 28.—Authorities abandoned their theory that G. MacKay Price, sought in connection with the death of his bride, had committed suicide. Price was believed to have shot and killed his young wife after she refused to discuss his charges that she had been untrue to him.

"You wouldn't dare to shoot me," Mrs. Price is said to have taunted her husband when he threatened to kill her. Price, according to his sister-in-law, Mrs. L. J. Zopp, fired five bullets from a rifle into his wife's body. The alleged slayer then went to a neighbor's house and asked for a gun with which to kill himself. His request refused, he returned to his own home, washed his clothes and disappeared.

Three Americans Injured.

London, Aug. 28.—Three Americans were injured in an aeroplane accident at Maldstone, when a French plane arriving from Paris crashed to the ground. One passenger, a Russian, was killed. The Americans were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith, who are suffering from cuts and bruises, and Albert M. Austin, who is unconscious from concussion and is being privately treated at West Malling. The aeroplane, which was a Farman Goliath, was flying to Croydon from Paris.

FOR INDEFINITE PERIOD

President Coolidge Has Discontinued All Cabinet Meetings.

Washington, Aug. 28.—President Coolidge has discontinued all cabinet meetings for an indefinite period, it was revealed at the white house.

Members of the cabinet have been formally notified that they are excused from the customary twice a week round table conference with the executive until otherwise advised. It will probably be well along in September before the cabinet is called together again.

In the meantime, however, the president from day to day is calling one or another of the department heads for individual conferences on problems relating to that particular department.

LaFollette Delays Return.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Senator LaFollette has notified his office that he will delay his return from Oct. 9, the day originally set, to Oct. 20. The voyage back from Europe to New York will be made aboard the American liner George Washington. It was also learned that the senator has ordered that arrangements go forward for a formal conference of the "progressive bloc" members before congress is convened in December.

Wagner Outpoints Dundee.

WHEAT CONTESTS

State and County Championships Provided and Also Honor Clubs.

Announcement of rules for the new state wheat growing contest has been made by extension specialists in farm crops at the Ohio State university. The contest fields will be 10 acres, the same size of fields entered in corn contests which the college has conducted for the past six years.

To be eligible for the Ohio "Forty-Bushel Wheat Club," a state honorary organization similar to the "Hundred Bushel Corn Club" the contestant must raise 400 bushels of wheat, or 40 bushels to the acre. This is three times the average wheat yield in America, 15 bushels to the acre.

The contest is open to any Ohio farmer over 19 years old. It is provided that the field must have regular sides, so that it can be easily and accurately measured by the judges. The contestant may grow any good milling variety of red winter wheat.

Like the 10-acre corn contest, competition will be on a county basis, and the farmer with the best yield in a county will win the championship medal for that county, provided his yield exceeds 25 bushels to the acre. If his yield is 40 or more bushels to the acre, he will in addition be given honorary membership on the rolls of the State Forty Bushel club.

The farmer with the highest yield in the state will be named state champion and presented a trophy cup at Farmers' week held every February at the Ohio State university.

Provision is made for the appointment of disinterested local judges and rules are drawn to govern their measurements of yield.

BUTTER PRICES

No Drought, No Shortage, Farmers Not Getting More for Milk.

Note the price of butter—high for this season of the year. Why? No one can assign a reason. Formerly, market reports contained information showing how prices reflected conditions. But that was the law of supply and demand was working. Nowadays consumers seemingly are victims of a system that is conducted on the theory of charging all the traffic will bear. Prices are not always uniform; if they were, it would look as if the dealers were in a combination, but prices are high enough to insure a profit to even the lowest priced dealer.

There has been no drought of consequence, and no apparent shortage of pasture. Yet butter is high. But farmers are not getting more for their milk, so the inference is that the dairy companies are taking a bigger profit. Or does the increase in price represent the increased cost of manufacture? If the dairy companies are not gouging, they owe it to themselves to tell the public why a pound of butter costs so much. There is a lurking suspicion in the public mind that there is too wide a margin between what the farmer receives for his milk and what the butter consumer has to pay.—Toledo Times.

114th O. V. I. WILL MEET IN CIRCLEVILLE

Members of the 114th Ohio Volunteer Infantry and their families are invited to attend the 38th annual reunion of the organization September 12 and 13 in Circleville. D. B. Saint, secretary, of Mt. Sterling asks members to inform him of any deaths or change of address of 114th veterans since the last reunion.

Rivals the "Human Fly."

Of all American animals, bighorn, the mountain sheep, is one of the most remarkable. Not only is he equally remarkable in his ability to live, and live well, in an environment where it would seem that no animal of such size could possibly sustain life. There, on the roof of the world, he not only sustains life, but winter or summer, appears to be fat and in the best of condition, the People's Home Magazine says.

AMUSEMENTS

The Paramount picturization of Edith Wharton's novel, "The Glimpses of the Moon," had its premier presentation at the Met theater last night and was cordially received by a large audience.

The story tells of the married life of a young couple, Susan Branch (Bebe Daniels), one of society's "poor sisters" and "Nick" Lansing, her husband played by David Powell, a struggling writer. "Nick" and Susan become involved in the domestic affairs of Mr. and Mrs. Vanderlyn. The latter, played by Rubye de Remer, has been helpful, financially, to Susan, and in return for her kindness, she demands the aid of Susan in a scheme that almost results in her separation from her husband. The affair, however, is satisfactorily cleared up, and Susan and "Nick" are reunited. "Nick" has sold a novel, and he is established as an author.

Nita Naldi has the role of the frivolous Mrs. Vanderlyn, and her work is a close second to that of Miss Daniels. Others in the cast are Maurice Costello, Charles Gerrard, William Kuirk and Pearl Sindelar.

This is a really excellent production absolutely censor-proof and entertainment that we heartily recommend to picture fans.

APPOINTED VICE PRESIDENT.

At a meeting of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad directors meeting held at Cleveland Friday, Herbert Fitzpatrick, of Huntington, West Virginia, was elected vice president and general counsel. Mr. Fitzpatrick has been for years the road's West Virginia counsel. He succeeds Henry T. Wickman of Richmond, Virginia, who asked to be relieved of the responsibilities. Mr. Wickham has been identified with the road for fifty years.

In addition to the program of spending $37,090,000 for improvements an additional $500,000 was appropriated. This amount will be used for the double tracking of the Chesapeake & Ohio northern line.

HOOSIER

—the Kitchen Cabinet that saves miles of steps

—the Only Kitchen Convenience that Adjusts Your Work-Table to Suit Your Height

Gymnasium instructors have a little trick of asking new members of their classes to hold their hands above their heads and open and close their fingers. After a minute or two the student, usually suffers an acute pain in the muscles. Yet opening and closing the fingers is a simple, natural operation. It's the unnatural position in which the arms are held which wears one out.

Unless your work-table is adjusted to the proper height to suit your individual build, you stand in an unnatural position which puts a muscle strain on arms and back for such movements as rolling dough and beating eggs.

That is why so many women wear themselves out at their kitchen work. It is also why women who own the new HOOSIER are freed from such muscle-strains. For the new HOOSIER gives you a work-table adjusted to your comfort.

An initial payment as low as $1.00 will put a HOOSIER in your home.

Rich in Misfortunes.
At the end of life a man finds himself rich, not so much by his fortune as by his misfortunes. Crimson Clover Seed of Inferior Quality

Samples Tested for Germination Were Very Low.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An examination of the quality of crimson clover seed has recently been made by the seed testing laboratories of the bureau of plant industry, United States Department of Agriculture. Samples secured from representative dealers were tested for germination. As this was done during the month of June, seed of the 1923 crop was not available.

One-fifth of the samples was found to contain less than 25 per cent of live seed, and two-fifths of the samples contained less than 65 per cent of pure live crimson clover seed. In other words, two-fifths of the samples of crimson clover seed offered farmers during the month of June were of such poor quality that they would not be permitted entry into the United States under the seed importation act. The proportion of high grade seed offered in the market will be increased when the 1923 crop seed is available, but nevertheless the old seed of low vitality now being offered will be sold for seedling purposes.

It should be kept in mind, says the department, that crimson clover seed loses its vitality more rapidly than most other seeds, and therefore it is especially important to know in advance of seeding how much of it may be expected to grow under favorable soil and weather conditions. If the germination is not known before sowing, many failures in the field are sure to follow.

Sells Pure Bred Cattle to Oklahoma Scoffers

Illustrating the satisfaction and prosperity that come with improved live stock, Robert Ellis, an Oklahoma dairyman, tells of his experiences with scoffers when he began raising pure bred. "When I shipped in my first pure bred heifer," he stated in a recent letter to the United States Department of Agriculture, "the old, gray-headed men gathered around me and asked me what I paid for her. When I told them $240, they said I had more money than brains. They said I could not sell any cattle in the county at that price. But I am glad I am a pure bred stockman and one of the first to enroll with Uncle Sam to put the scrub sires out. I have sold cattle to some of the men who laughed at me and I received $450 for one animal."

Mr. Ellis adds that he observed the difference between scrubs and pure bred by being unable to obtain more than $10 for a scrub while pure bred ordinarily sold for $150 and up.

Dusting Most Practical to Relieve Fowls of Lice

Lice on chickens multiply so fast that one pair of lice may be grandparents to over 100,000 descendants in two months. Most of their lives are spent on the fowl, part on the nest. Eggs or nits are most commonly found on the barbs of the down feathers.

Body lice spend their entire life on the fowl. Dipping often causes colds and disease, so dusting has been found to be the most practical. A cheap and good home-made powder can be made by mixing one part of stock dip or crude carbolic acid with three parts of gasoline and using it to moisten as much cement or plaster of paris as possible. Dry and apply liberally to the fowls.

Greatest Food Value of Corn Found in Silage

Corn for fodder should be cut at the same time as for silage and placed in large round shocks well tied at the top. Corn fodder is a good reliable dry feed, but is wasteful. Experiments have abundantly shown that the most economical way of preserving the greatest food value of corn is to silo it for live stock. Colorado experiments show that corn shocked and dried in the field loses all the way from 25 per cent up to 85 per cent of its value by blowing away and by other losses, largely mechanical, due entirely to climatic conditions.—Extension Service, Colorado Agricultural College.

Clover Crop Will Not Thrive in Sour Pasture

Some pastures are sour and as the result clover does not thrive in them. Blue grass and other grasses may yield fairly well on land that is somewhat sour, but the ideal blue grass pasture, in fact, the ideal pasture of any kind, is one that contains at least some clover. The atmospheric nitrogen which the clovers and all legumes are able to assimilate, adds just that much fertility to the soil and then serves as food for the grasses. This is why a blue-grass pasture containing clover always produces more feed than one containing no clover.

Green Crops for Swine Are of Much Importance

The importance of green crops for hogs can hardly be overestimated. No hog breeder can succeed today unless he makes use of green pastures. All pasture crops are more valuable while they are young and succulent. It is advisable to have two or three pastures which can be used alternately.

FOOD PRODUCERS

Spend Much Time on Wheat Because It is Easy to Raise.

American agriculture at present is afflicted with an overabundance of "30 day farmers" who endeavor to confine operation to wheat production alone, President Guy Huston of the American Association of Joint Stock Land Banks said in his opening address before the third annual convention of the organization.

Because wheat is the least troublesome crop on the whole list, Mr. Huston said, it could be produced in fertile areas, with "about 30 days real work each year." This condition, he explained, resulted in the present great production and the consequent difficulties of the wheat farmer. Diversification of production would permanently relieve the situation, he said.

Mr. Huston, who also is president of the Chicago joint stock land bank, which last year loaned approximately 60 per cent of the total land bank funds circulated in the United States, declared that "more than 50 per cent of the farms in the United States are clear of debt." Nine out of every 10 farmers who are borrowers, he said, are carrying their obligations satisfactorily.

THRIFT and EDUCATION

We think that "Thrift" should be as much the part of the American child's education as arithmetic, geography and spelling.

Doesn't it sound rather inconsistent to teach all the fine points about MAKING MONEY without saying a word about how to TAKE CARE OF IT after it is made.

A good way to teach thrift, is for each and every parent to see that his child has a Savings Account in this solid institution.

Such a step will have a beneficial influence on the child's future character. Start the account today.

Peculiar Rain Tree.

Rain from tree foliage is an interesting phenomenon of the Canary Islands. Dr. S. V. Perez of Tenerife notes that the famous rain tree of Ferro, Canaries, grew on a head land where the mountain mists from the trade winds collected, and by means of water tanks under the poor inhabitants of that island, where there are no springs, actually gathered enough water for drinking purposes. The effect of the foliage in condensing moisture is said to be evident to anybody passing through a mist-covered forest in any of these islands.

Of course you've heard about the hardworked guy whose job was to pick the blossoms off the family century plant; the bloke who sticks the spots on double-blank dominoes and the culprit whose life work is making bird seed for cuckoo clocks, but the champion, double-bowknotted, floatin' axled and vulcanized war loafer is the cuss who said he was doing war work by picking up the stitches his wife dropped when she knitted.—Indianapolis Star.

OUR GARDENS

Came Out of the East Says Wife of Famous Sculptor.

Like other civilizing influences, gardens came out of the east. Perhaps the antiquarians have too often told each other that the ancient Greeks had little feeling for landscape, little love for the cultivation of flowers. And botanists sadly inform us that in the old pre-Burbank Attic days the world had in its gardens only the rose violet and lily, the iris, narcissus and crocus, the amaranth, gladiolus, and poppy, besides a few other classic favorites. Yet we know that with the Greeks, as with the Egyptians and Romans, garlands of flowers played an important part in festivals, religious or otherwise. We know that Greek philosophy gladly took the air in gardens, with statues of the gods and half-gods close at hand. The Greek money-suckle and ivy and acanthus have been immortalized in sculpture, thru the Greek genius for form.

The genius for form! Perhaps more than we moderns realize, this genius for form—for the making of significant shapes out of all sorts of practicable materials, organic or inorganic—has been a fundamental influence in the most famous gardens of all time. Without letting our surmises stray as far back as to the garden of man's first disobedience, we can readily see that hanging gardens and terraced farms, whether in Babylon or in the Borromean Islands or in Peru, demand first of all a bold reshaping of nature by art, a sculpture upon the hillside. Not only must the earth itself, the very ground under foot, be carved in to plateaux, stairways, watercourses, but even the waters must be curiously turned and modelled into new lines, now for the utilitarian purposes of irrigation and refreshment, now in the service of beauty. Again, living trees and shrubs, especially the evergreen varieties, have from early times been trimmed into forms of usefulness or ornament. Man no sooner acquires a possession, say a field or a garden plot than he longs to frame it and hedge it and bound it and accent it with finials pleasing to his taste. Today, we sometimes look on the English topiary work of the seventeenth century as a quaint and agreeable pedantry of landscape art. We smile a little at those venerable bushes of box or privet carved into shapes of ships, peacocks, and unicorns. But perhaps the fantasy was "Already old when Homer still was young."—From "Form in Garden Art," by Adeline Adams, in the September Scribner's.

New Course Offered This Winter by Columbus Chapter.

President Hubert E. Lutz of the Columbus chapter, American Institute of Banking, Columbus, announced that an additional course on "Negotiable Instruments" will be added to the institute curriculum this winter. The new division of the school, according to Mr. Lutz, will treat the legal side as well as the physical makeup of bank paper.

George W. Toolil, who has been an instructor in the institute, will conduct classes in the new division. This will be in addition to two divisions of instruction which have existed there before an elementary banking and commercial banking law. Allan Raeburn of the clearing house is announced as the instructor in elementary banking and Mr. Toolil will conduct the class on commercial banking law.

Two other special classes are being planned for the coming winter.

In preparation for the season's activity Mr. Lutz has announced the following appointments of committee chairmen: O. W. Powers, First National bank, chief consul; Miss Clara Casey, Huntington bank, women's activities; Alfred T. Copeland, City National bank, athletics; D. A. Schryver, Citizens bank, entertainment and speakers; David G. Abrams, City National bank, library; Walter T. Reiter, National Bank of Commerce, public speaking and debating; Walter A. Fox, clearing house, public affairs; Raymond Link, Ohio National bank, students' round table.

Executive officers of the chapter comprise a committee on extending and developing the work of the chapter under direction of President Lutz.

Caught On to Sailors' Trick.

If a man's hat blew overboard while leaving port many British skippers would turn back and delay sailing until the next day. It was an omen that one of the crew would be lost over the side during the trip. This sign, however, became discredited, as wily deckhands, desirous of another day ashore with their wives and families, contracted the habit of going aloft and assisting the wind to foretell disaster.

Newark, O., Aug. 28.—When Barbara Moritz died here five years ago she willed her jewels, valued at $3,500, to her sister in Alsace-Lorraine. War conditions prevented delivery. When she learned of the terms of the will recently, the sister asked that the jewels be sold and the proceeds sent to her. Public auction will be held next Monday in accordance with this request.

Woman Seized.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 28.—A detective who saw her 10 years ago in Pittsburgh plunged into a fashionable crowd on the boardwalk here and came out with a woman said to be "Feather Fingered" Katie English, alleged to be the cleverest woman pick-pocket on the Atlantic coast. "I identified her by a little scare on her chin," the detective said.

OCEAN MAIL WELL WATCHED

Officers of Experience Keep a Constant Check of the Pouches on Vessels at Sea.

The disappearance of several mail bags from the Atlantic Transportation company's mail steamer, the Minnekahda, is a strange occurrence.

That it is due to an error in checking can almost be considered as impossible, for so often and accurately are the mails counted by postal experts that so large an error could never have occurred, observes London Tit-Bits.

When mails arrive on the quay side for transshipment to the waiting mail boat they are taken out of the closely guarded van and transferred to the floor of the shed alongside which the ship is berthed.

Then comes the work of loading and checking the mails. The task is performed by two independent checkers, one representing the postal authorities, who are responsible for the safety of the mails till they are finally on board the mail boat, the other being the mail officer of the ship, usually the second officer, a man of many years' experience and service in the company.

Each bag is counted as it is carried up the gangway and placed in the mail-room—a specially constructed and burglar-proof compartment—where yet another officer is superintending the stowing and guarding against any possible pilfering.

When the last bag is safely aboard, usually about an hour before sailing time, the tally is reckoned up, and the second officer signs a receipt for the number of bags aboard his ship.

Now the responsibility of the postal authorities is ended. The keys are handed over to the commander, who only parts with them for a few minutes each day, when they are handed to the mail officer, whose duty it is to visit the mail-room and see that everything is secure.

Each day of the voyage across the Atlantic he carries out this duty, and a daily entry is made in the official log-book; "Mail-room visited at noon; everything correct."

When port is reached the same scrupulous care is taken in unloading the mails. The mail train draws up alongside the ship. Each bag is again checked as it is placed in the van, and the second officer breathes a sigh of relief as the postal official signs the receipt that testifies that "the mail of the R. M. S. ——— has been received intact and in good condition."

Norwegian Wedding Festivities.

A Norwegian wedding is a delightful spectacle. The picturesque Norwegian national costume is worn, and the wedding party walks or drives in procession to the church. After the ceremony there is a dance on the village green, with a violin for accompaniment, till it is time for supper. The next day the festivities are resumed and possibly they may extend to the day after.

The Hotel Stenographer

BY ROE FULKERSON

"Next thing we will be getting a rodeo by radio," kidded the Hotel Stenographer.

"Who?" asked the House Detective.

"Everybody," said the girl. "It's a fast age we live in, Kelly. People get married in airplanes, get soused on synthetic gin, we talk to ships out at sea and get notified when our bootlegger gets to the three mile limit. We elect farmers to the senate, who cannot come until they help the wife get in the alfalfa; we have farm blocks, and it is against the law to have an upping block, like used to be in front of every home.

"We live in cells like bees and get stung once a month by the landlord. We hike our skirts up and down like playing 'Simon Says Thumbs Up' according to the wishes of the dressmakers, and we pay a cover charge for the privilege of paying for our dinner on somebody's roof.

"We have swapped party line telephone gossip for radio, and do our fighting under the water and up in the air, instead of in the water and on the ground. Everybody's business is everybody's business and real business is nobody's business.

"As soon as a vaudeville comedian makes nice people laugh Avery Hopwood writes a play around him and we pay more money for prize fight than the whole town can raise in six weeks for the Red Cross.

"We pay more attention to the pedigree of Airedales and bull pups than to eugenics and people with money all have children with buck teeth and receding chins.

In hot weather we have electric fans to cool us off and catch head colds from. I bought one day before yesterday and put it in my room and tonight I got the sniffles and a date with my sweetie, and if that isn't a combination to make any girl sore on the whole world I am a billygoat with whiskers down to my knees."

Novel Treatment.

A whirlpool bath is the novel treatment applied at a hospital in Manchester, England, for cases of rheumatism, following typhoid and dysentery. The tank, large enough for 12 men, contains 4 feet of water and is provided with seats, on which the bathers are immersed to their necks. The temperature is kept at 93 degrees Fahrenheit, just below that of the body. The room is quiet and dimly lighted, and after an hour in the bath the men go to rest rooms.

Monopolizes It Himself.

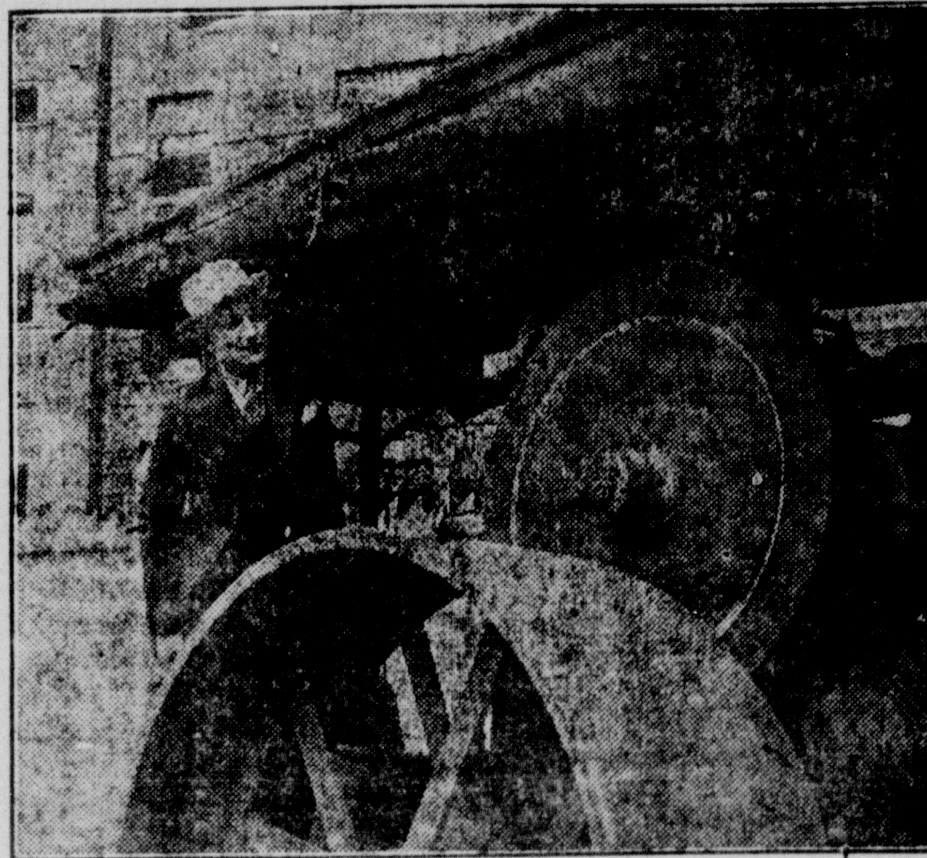

It sometimes happens that a married man has a great deal to say, but his wife won't let him say it.

God in Nature.

More than ever we need to appreciate the works of God as shown in the material world. A blue sky, flickering shadows on the grass, the grace in the flight of a bird—these things should give us the sense that God is still in the world. Let us listen to the voices of the brook. Let us watch the waves of the lake. We may or may not know what is on the farther, unseen shore, but we can build mental pictures of great beauty. There are thousands of beautiful pictures all around us if we have eyes to see and soul to appreciate them.

CINCINNATI BUSINESS MEN WORK FOR SUCCESS OF BIG EXPOSITION

Warner Sayers, President Cincinnati Fall Festival and Industrial Exposition runs a roller over the grounds.

Cincinnati business men have rolled up their sleeves and gone to work in order that all might be in readiness on August 25, when the million dollar Fall Festival and Industrial Exposition is opened.

Men worth thousands, and some of them worth millions, of dollars, are working night and day. Warner Sayers, who is president of the big exposition, is operating a steam roller to enable other men to do other work.

One of the biggest features will be two solid squares of Agricultural Machinery, a model country town, a model farm covering a half acre of ground; a miniature railroad operating in the model town and hundreds of farming devices that will interest not only the farmer but his entire family.

In addition there will be hundreds of industrial exhibits showing interesting features in the manufacturing of articles which are of educational value to the old, as well as the young. Visitors to the big Festival which continues for fifteen consecutive days, including Sundays, will be taken care of with every facility which the big city has to offer. Motorists will be given an opportunity of camping at Cincinnati Free Tourist Camp, and Traffic Officers have been led to believe that they might give the visitor the benefit of the doubt wherever possible.

LAST SAD RITES

Many Friends From Distance Attend Funeral of Cary Short.

Hundreds of friends from all over the state, city and county and points in West Virginia, crowded the auditorium of the stately Methodist church Monday afternoon to do homage and pay respect to Cary Short.

The funeral services of the man who in life commanded such a wide circle of friendship, showed how popular he was. His friends did not forget him in death. It was more than a funeral ceremony. Seldom have services for a man in private life drawn such a large crowd. The church was full of strangers who had come hundreds of miles to pay their respects to a man whom they loved and respected. It was an unusual outpouring of people, noticeable from the fact that the man to whom they did honor never held public office and was not a member of any fraternal or secret society.

Feelingly did the officiating minister, Rev. Edwin K. Johnson, refer to the happy home life, the man's honesty in dealing with his fellowman, his successful business career and pointed to the fact that he was the type of man of which his family or any community could feel proud, as he was a self educated and self made man.

Rev. George E. Tift, of Nelsonville, a former pastor of the church assisted in the services.

A quartet composed of Mrs. E. K. Johnson, Miss Stella Grimes, E. S. Roper and Meeker Terwilliger sang "Abide With Me," "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me" and "Thy Will be Done." Miss Alys Seitz was the organist. At the mortuary "Rock of Ages" was sung by the quartet.

The display of floral tributes was unusual and this alone showed the esteem in which the dead was held by the living. The pallbearers were intimate friends of the deceased Charles P. Outhwaite and William Cross, of Columbus; W. A. Smith, of Allentown, Pennsylvania; Dr. Ernest Layne of Huntington, West Virginia and L. E. Miller, Edward C. Rector, Dr. J. J. Rooney and Bernard W. Young, of this city.

Among the out of town people attending the funeral were: George Sambrook, Cleveland; Thomas Bradley and C. E. Chatterton, of Sistersville, West Virginia; John Lemon, of Millersburg; Mr. Eckert and Dr. Ernest Layne, of Huntington, West Virginia; C. W. Cummings, of Uniontown, Pennsylvania; Clark Campbell, Will J. Rindsfoos, James F. Taylor, Dr. and Mrs. Chaney, G. M. Short, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Chaney, D. L. Thompson, Mr. Van Hook, Mr. Klunk, C. W. Pavey, Dr. C. W. Borland, Guy Johnson, of Columbus; John P. Phillips Sr., of Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. Will Anderson of Marysville; Mrs. Barbara Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bitzer of Dayton and Rev. and Mrs. B. R. Heller, of Vermillion, Ohio; Porter Haines, Charles Winner, Jacob Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Metzger, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Metzger, of Chillicothe.

Merry musical minstrel men came September 6, at the Grand theater with J. A. Coburns company in its twenty-fifth year. It is said to be the best performance "Cobe" has ever produced. Everything new, songs, jokes, costumes, scenery, acts and many new faces. Real hard working capable clever performers, clean comedy, fine singing, clever dancing. Modern and oldtime minstrelsy. Every man has his place his work, it's the first thing you notice, they all work. And they enjoy it. An appreciative satisfied audience is the guarantee of a performers merit, an attractions excellence. "Make them work, make them come back, they like it, get your money's worth." How many patrons have heard Manager Coburn say nightly as they enter the theater? He likes to see his company please and their efforts appreciated. That's what he is there for. The show you know.

PICKAWAY IN FIRST PLACE

Leads in Production of Both Main Staple Crops, Corn and Wheat.

Darke Heads the List in Hogs, Cream and Eggs and Ashtabula is First in Buckwheat, Honey and Dairy Cattle - Wood is First in Beets, Oats

Statistical analysis of Ohio agriculture, undertaken a year ago at the Ohio State university for the guidance of county agricultural agents, is now nearing completion. Ranking of counties according to volume of production for leading farm commodities shows Drake and Ashtabula more frequently at the top of the list than any other counties; Pickaway county, however, leads in production of both the main staple crops, corn and wheat.

Darke county leads in three important farm commodities, hogs, cream and eggs and stands second in the production of corn and dark tobacco. Ashtabula county stands first in production of buckwheat, honey and dairy cattle. Wood county is first in the production of sugar beets and oats. These are the only counties that stand first in the production of more than one farm commodity.

In apples, Lawrence county leads; in vegetable crops, Hamilton; in potatoes, Portage; in grapes, Cuyahoga; in burley tobacco, Brown; in dark tobacco, Montgomery; in market milk, Trumbull; in sheep, Knox; in alfalfa, Logan; in onions, Hardin, and in maple syrup, Geauga.

Rankings on the basis of yield to the acre, rather than of total production are now under way. First computations show that the leading corn counties on the basis are Clark, Greene and Preble in the order named.

WORLD'S RECORD

Irvin Millar's Litter of Pigs Weighed 2,500 Pounds at 180 Days.

Seventy farmers from all parts of Pickaway county were present to witness the weighing of the Big Type Poland China litter belonging to Irvin Millar, of Madison township at eight o'clock Friday morning, August 24. The litter tipped the scales at exactly 2500 pounds.

To the best of our knowledge this is a world's record for the first litter out of a gilt to be weighed up at exactly 180 days of age. Two litters in Indiana last year weighed more than this amount, but both were from mature sows.

Short talks were made by Dr. Carl W. Gay, head of the Animal Husbandry department, Ohio State university; John W. Wuichet, extension specialist, Ohio State university and N. E. Shaw, editor of the National Stockman and Farmer.

These men pointed out that the Millar litter showed that it was possible to feed out hogs of proper type without breaking them down, so as to make them of no value for breeding purposes. The litter is considered to be of the most approved type of hogs today, and the gains that they have made to be exhibited in finished condition show clearly that the big type hog will make rapid gains. Every pig was right up on its toes, had a good back and deep sides; altho they were criticised by some for being too high off the ground, which is characteristic of the big type hog.

At the solicitations of those present, arrangements were made with G. R. Lewis, manager of the Ohio State fair to have this litter on exhibit during the entire State fair. Farmers from Pickaway county, and in fact from all over Ohio who failed to see this litter last Friday, will have an opportunity to view them all week during the fair. A later article will give details as to the weekly gains and feeds given to this litter during the making of the record.

Omens on Horses.

There are several omens dealing with horses. A warrior likes his mount to neigh before going into battle, as this is a sign of victory. To meet a piebald horse is lucky, and if you meet another soon after you may express any wish and get it granted. A horse with a white star on its forehead is another lucky sign, but to meet a white horse means bad luck, unless one spits at it. This averts the ill luck. Another bad sign is for a horse to neigh opposite the door of a house. It means sickness to one of the inmates.

Discovers Ice Cream Soda.

The honor of discovering ice cream soda is generally given to Robert M. Green, who served the delicacy to the semi-centennial celebration of Franklin Institute, Philadelphia, in the summer of 1874, and advertised it at that time as something absolutely new.

Fight Intruders.

Wild creatures often have well-defined ideas as to where they belong and, as if certain places belonged to them, will fight off rivals. A male humming bird will take possession of a California garden and be ready all day to cross swords with any other of his kind that comes that way. "Cross swords" is a good expression for one can hear the clashing of the long bills as the birds soar high into the air. In the end the intruder is driven off. The male ostrich on a South African farm draws imaginary boundaries to its "land," and will attack even a human being who crosses them during the breeding season. These birds are dangerous customers, but the farmer, in making his rounds, is never attacked by more than one at a time.—Sportsman's Digest.

The Cent That Went to Church.

A silver dollar and a 1-cent piece once started an argument which deteriorated, as so many disputes do, into the purely personal. At this stage, the big coin thought it would squelch its opponent beyond resuscitation by declaring:

"I am one hundred times as good as you are—one hundred times as good as you are."

But the insignificant cent came back at him with:

"Like fun you are! I go to church every Sunday."—Everybody's Magazine.

ANNUAL PICNIC

Of St. Philip's Sunday School at Dewey Park, August 29.

The Sunday school and members of the church are planning to hold their annual picnic on Wednesday, August 29. Everybody will meet promptly at 9 o'clock in the morning at the Parish House where automobiles will be provided. Arrangements have been made with the proper authorities and Dewey park has been secured. The weather is always an important factor in planning a picnic but if it should rain, the picnic will be held in the Parish house.

Weller For Coolidge.

Baltimore, Aug. 28.—Unqualified approval of Coolidge for president in 1924 was expressed by United States Senator Orrington E. Weller of Maryland, in a statement in which he termed Coolidge "heir to the policies and organization of President Harding and his logical successor." As Senator Weller is leader and spokesman for the Republican party in Maryland, the statement was accepted as an indication he would endeavor to have the delegation to the Republican national convention instructed to vote as a unit for Coolidge.

HIT BY TRAIN

Automobile of Warner Rhoades Wrecked at Railroad Crossing

Warner Rhoades, of Pickaway township, had a narrow escape from death this morning at the Mound street grade crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad, when his automobile was struck by the east bound passenger train.

Mr. Rhoades was coming to the city driving a Reo car to deliver a can of cream. As he neared the crossing he did not observe the train until the front end of his machine was over the first running rail and it was too late to reverse his engine and get out of harm's way.

The pilot of the engine hit the auto a fearful blow and tossed the car into the air. When it came down it was turned in the opposite direction to which it had been going. Mr. Rhoades was pitched out a distance of twenty feet but was not severely injured. One of the queer things that happened was that in the jolt his pocketbook and bunch of keys were forced out of his pockets and the lid on the can of cream was pulled off and Mr. Rhoades was completely drenched by the contents of the can.

The engine of the auto is a complete wreck as it received the full force of the blow from the locomotive.

EVEN THE AUTO

By IDA M. TUPPER

(© 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"BUT, father, you are so unreasonable! It's just because you have lived on a farm all your life, and are prejudiced against city people. Your ideas are so old-fashioned. Why, father, people in the city simply couldn't exist without automobiles, and as for Vaughn Norwood— Well, I'm sorry to displease you, father, but I have no intention of ending my friendship with him."

After delivering this declaration, Jane Witherspoon, with a defiant toss of her curly head, returned to the cookies she was skillfully cutting for the baking pan. She had recently graduated from college, where according to her father (rated the wealthiest man in the valley) she had acquired "notions."

The deacon's strong aversion for these "new-fangled" city things was demonstrated by his emphatic refusal to buy a car. The faithful mare, Roxy, whom the deacon had raised from a colt, he declared to be plenty fast enough for him, as he had no intention of endangering his life in one of "them thar road wreckers."

Jane's outburst was due to her father's command that she never step foot inside Vaughn Norwood's car, and, further, he didn't want the young "whippersnapper" to "set foot on his land." Jane had never defied her parent before, although she had many times been exceedingly annoyed by his exacting prejudices. But this was more than even she could tolerate.

That night as Jane lay dreaming of a wonderful motor trip with Vaughn, crossing the country by gleaming lakes and towering mountains, her father's agitated, "Jane, Jane, come quick—mother—," shattered the dream into grim reality.

The girl was accustomed to such calls, as Nancy Witherspoon, a delicate, flowerlike little woman, had an unruly heart. After a glance at her mother, a brief test of the pulse, Jane ran for the strychnine. Her brain reeled momentarily when she saw the empty bottle. No stimulant, and mother . . . Like lightning flashed the only possible chance of saving her beloved parent.

Grasping the telephone, she called the bearer of her father's animosity. "Vaughn, Jane speaking. Rush with strychnine—your car—mother." Her faltering voice told the story, and he needed no further explanation.

Her father, suffering intensely, as his wife was the idol of his heart, groaned in dismay when Jane disclosed the empty phial.

"Oh, Jane, what can we do? There wouldn't be time with old Roxy!" Jane shook her head in negation.

"I've telephoned Vaughn, father, to rush out in his car. He ought to make it in ten minutes if he can get the medicine."

The man first glared at her, then nodded his head in submission.

As he patted Nancy's ice-cold hand he crooned, "Just hold on a few minutes more, dear, just a few minutes."

She smiled at them wanly and Jane worked over her almost frantically. Would he never come? Nancy grew paler and paler, her breath came in fluttering gasps.

The whirl of an engine, the door opened and Vaughn handed Jane the medicine. She quickly administered to her mother. All enmity was forgotten between Vaughn and Witherspoon in their united efforts to revive Nancy.

After several hours, when life had been restored and his wife was tranquilly sleeping, the old man extended his hand to the departing Norwood.

"Vaughn, I've been an obdurate old codger. Boy, I can't thank you— Tears of gratitude trickled down the elder man's wrinkled cheeks as he continued: "You've helped me keep the dearest thing in life to me, and just to get even with you I'll buy one of your ding-busted road-wreckers."

When the Deacon drove out in his new car and announced that Jane was soon to become Mrs. Norwood, the sewing circle held two meetings in one week to fathom out how it ever happened.

But the Deacon knew that "a friend in need is a friend indeed"—even the auto.

Tame Deer in British Columbia.

An interesting story comes from British Columbia by the roundabout way of the Yorkshire (England) Post, as follows: A settler took up his abode on a small rocky island. After he had been there a few days, a solitary deer paid him a visit. He put down some cornstalks for it, and, later, it brought a second. Food was provided regularly, and by the end of the year thirty were in the habit of coming, swimming, as he learned, from the mainland. The animals soon lost all fear, and clustered round the dwelling as cattle might, some of the more daring knocking at the door to announce their presence.

Quite Disappointed.

She reached Newquay after dark and was met by friends who motored her to their country home on a hillside.

The next morning she walked into the garden, quite prepared to be astounded by the grandeur of Cornwall. Down an avenue of tall trees she caught a glimpse of sky-blue water.

"What is that water?" she asked. "That," replied her hostess, proudly, "is the Atlantic ocean."

"Oh, I had an idea it was larger."

EDISON-FORD PLAN'S ATTACK ON INTEREST

Abolition of Rent No More Plausible Than Abolition of Pay on Loans, Expert Shows.

It is no more unreasonable to pay interest on a loan of money than to pay rent on a house, declares William T. Foster, Director of the Pollack Foundation for Economic Research, in exposing the fallacy of the attack on interest charges by Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison in their commodity money scheme to do away with the present financial system. Mr. Foster's argument is reviewed in the present article which is one of a series prepared by the American Bankers Association.

"The Ford-Edison commodity money plan is regarded as a step toward the abolition of all interest charges," Mr. Foster says. "Interest," says the Dearborn Independent, "is a tax that few ancient tyrants would have dared impose. Interest in actual modern practice is a contrivance whereby all production is taxed by parasites, and whereby money is given a supremacy over men, material and management, which it cannot sustain."

Renting Money
"But is there really anything more terrible about paying for the use of money than about paying for the use of anything else? Suppose a farmer finds himself in need of a harvesting machine, and without enough money to buy one. In that case he can either borrow a machine of Neighbor Brown or borrow money and buy a machine. The farmer would consider it right to pay in some way for the use of the machine. Why should he expect to borrow money—which is honored in the markets in payment for the same machine—without paying for the use of the money?"

"Now let us suppose that the farmer uses the machine so successfully that he saves a thousand dollars. With that money he can buy a farm and he can let Neighbor Brown have the use of it. Neighbor Brown naturally would expect to pay rent. Instead of buying the farm, however, he could lend the thousand dollars to his neighbor in order that his neighbor might buy the farm. In that case Neighbor Brown should expect to pay for the rent of the money. All this seems clear. When the transactions are as simple as these it is plain that there is just as great propriety in charging for the use of money as in charging for the use of things that money will buy.

Loaned Money Builds a School
"We may assume, however, that the farmer does not want to buy land and Neighbor Brown does not want to borrow money. In that case the farmer deposits his thousand dollars in a bank and the bank pays him interest for the use of his money. But the bank can pay interest only if it makes profitable use of his money. Now the bank finds that the city needs a high-school building, and has decided to borrow enough money to construct it. In order to obtain the money the city has issued bonds, each of which is a promise to pay one thousand dollars at a specified date, and interest in the meantime at a specified rate. The bank buys one of these bonds. Thus the farmer has had a part in providing the city with a school building; and the farmer has just as much right to expect interest for the use of his money as though he had loaned the money directly or indirectly to Neighbor Brown."

"CAPITALISTS"—AND DON'T KNOW IT

A good many people who rail against capital are beating their own backs. Some are savings bank depositors; some have shares in building and loan associations; some have bought a liberty bond; some have ordered a stock of goods for their store. All of them, without knowing it, have performed a great miracle, for they have turned the work of their hands or their brains into a new product which, while it helps them, is helping thousands of others. Every one of them is a capitalist as most of us are—unless we are tramps or paupers or ne'er-do-wells—and we may well be proud of the name. For capitalism, instead of being the devilish invention of a few selfish interests, is the great material force that has lifted millions from poverty, degradation and slavery.

Like other human institutions, capital can be abused. So, too, can eyesight and health and education and love. Part of America's great job is to remedy and prevent such abuses. Sane people, however, do not cut off their feet to get rid of their corns.

Capital is today's surplus. It is what gives us a better start tomorrow than we had today. If we don't save it, we don't have it, and when we have it, it is useless until it is put to work.

If thrift is right, then it is right that people should acquire funds as the result of their industry and self-denial. But money that is merely hoarded is like water that becomes stagnant; it is harmful, not helpful. When money is put to work, it is like water power; it turns the wheels of industry, increases employment and raises the general level of comfort.

When every producer can create a surplus and that surplus can be gathered into a common fund and put to work for the common good we shall have reached an ideal condition.—From "The Greatest Family in the World."

Let Children Read Aloud.
Reading aloud in the home is of the utmost value. Let the children listen, and let them do some of the reading, even of interesting grownup books. It gives them not only a larger scope of ideas, but self-confidence in the use of a rapidly growing vocabulary. The right use of the mother-tongue is a very valuable accomplishment. But it takes time and pains to acquire it. And it begins at the very beginning—Exchange.

Make Our Own Beauty.

Men and women make their own beauty or ugliness. Bulwer speaks in one of his novels of a man "who was uglier than he had any business to be," and, if we could but read it, every human being carries his life in his face, and is good looking, or the reverse, as that life has been good or evil. On our features the fine channels of thought and emotion are eternally at work.—Alexander Smith.

BETTER CITIZENS

Amendment of Marriage Laws Suggested by Eugenics Committee.

A program for the "practical application of eugenic principles" to the improvement of the citizens of America, has been made public by the Eugenics committee of the United States. It suggests segregation of defective types, sterilization, laws encouraging parenthood by those endowed with good hereditary traits, and enactments rationalizing marriage and divorce regulations, as among the more important aims in the field of legislation.

Inquiry into the eugenic elements in birth control is mentioned as one of the most important research problems. More than 200 activities for eugenic societies and welfare workers are outlined.

The program was arranged by a subcommittee of the American organization headed by Professor Henry E. Crampton, of Columbia university. Other members of the subcommittee are Professors Irving Fisher and Roswell Johnson and Dr. Harry Laughlin. The national body is composed of prominent scientists, educators, public officials, churchmen and social workers and is affiliated with the International commission on eugenics, whose headquarters is in London.

"For the first time in history," Professor Fisher said, "a unified, co-ordinated, practicable and comprehensive scheme for the conservation of human resources is offered. We have heard much recently of the importance of conservation as related to material things. This program offers conservation of the richest traits of human character and the finest types of human physique, without either of which man cannot attain the fullness of life which is the end of human destiny."

War, immigration, farm credits, protective tariffs, transportation, labor unions and housing all are mentioned in the program as problems for eugenic research.

The automobile is mentioned as a factor in rural eugenics, "since it tends to reduce inbreeding from proximity, and to widen the range of marriage selection in rural districts."

The eugenic aspect of higher education is presented in the question "Are universities attracting the most intelligent elements in the population and virtually sterilizing them, both students and teachers?"

Concerning the present general tendency of migration from rural communities to the cities, the report asks if the big centers attract "the superior intelligent and able bodied young persons from the farms, or the inferior?"

"If the superior stocks are being driven off by present tendencies to the sterile life of city commerce, this constitutes a dysgenic drain upon the population," the report says. "It is estimated that in four generations the 50 per cent of the present population which is on the farms tends to become 88 per cent of the total stock."

It then is pointed out that if these two tendencies are demonstrated by research to be continually operative, the result would be that close to 900 out of every 1000 of American population four generations hence would be of the stock of the lower mental and physical types of the present time.

MANY DOCTORS

Present at Second Postmortem Examination of Remains of Cary Short.

The second postmortem examination of the remains of Cary Short was held this morning at the undertaking rooms of the Albaugh company. The first examination was held last week by Dr. D. V. Courtwright and Dr. W. D. Jones of Clarksburg. It seems the agents of the insurance companies were not satisfied with the conclusions of the first postmortem, even after a pathological examination was made of a blood clot by Dr. Coons, of Columbus.

Those present at the examination today representing the family of Mr. Short were Doctors Luke, Brock and Borland, of Columbus; Doctors H. D. Jackson, Howard Jones, Lloyd Jones and D. V. Courtwright, of this city; Dr. D. V. Mead, of Cincinnati; W. D. Jones of Clarksburg and Dr. Brundige, of Columbus.

The accident insurance companies were represented by Doctors Scott, VanBuskirk and Foreman and McCampbell, of Columbus and Doctors Heffner and McKinnon, of this city.

The agents representing the accident insurance companies who carried policies on Mr. Short's life were A. Hulse Hays, of this city, representing the American Casualty company; A. W. Wagner of Columbus, representing the Globe Indemnity company; Archie Houstle, the Pacific Mutual; F. A. O'Donnell, the Travelers' Accident company and the Connecticut General Accident company.

HOLD QUEER JOBS

Woman Testifies She Pokes Fires for a Living.

London Firm Supplies Attendants for Dogs, While Good Conversation-ists Are Always in Demand.

The woman who stated in court recently that she earned a living by poking fires is only one of the many hundreds of people who follow occupations of which most folks have never heard.

This curious form of employment is common in big cities where Jews are numerous. By rabbinical law Jews are forbidden to mend or tend to any fires on their Sabbath. As many as 50 houses may be visited by these professional firemakers, who receive a small fee from each. Strange as this may be, there are many stranger ways of making a living. For example, a good conversationalist need never be "down and out." Some employment agencies are always on the lookout for interesting talkers to entertain insomnia victims at night. A sufferer from this complaint actually pays a retaining fee to a woman well known in the West End of London for her bright and vivacious conversation.

Just as little known is the work of men who take dogs for an airing. There is in London at least one firm which, at the shortest notice, supplies dog attendants, who may be called by women to take charge of their pets in the parks.

This strange "profession" is not such a sinecure as it would appear. Thefts of valuable dogs have been increasing very rapidly in recent times; and the thieves are very ingenious in their methods. So where valuable animals are taken for an airing only people who are up to the tricks of these pests can be entrusted with them.

Another little known way of earning a living is the work of the searchers at the British museum. These men are employed chiefly in looking up references dealing with heraldry, genealogy, and the history of ancestral mansions or of regiments—anything and everything indeed.

Many of the searches have been employed in the queerest tasks imaginable. In one case, a three years' quest produced evidence, found in the rolls of some ancient parchments, regarding the disputed ownership of a rich seam of coal in Yorkshire. This resulted in a gain of £37,000 for the man's employer.

It is not only in London that one finds queer trades; they abound in many parts of the country.—London Answers.

A Responsive Chord.

Betty Brown, the prettiest girl in the village, was blest with a father who snubbed all the young men who came to see her. One evening a bashful young man named Samuel Green called.

After the trio had sat together in silence for some time, the young man ventured to remark:

"It looks as though it might rain, sir."

"It's not going to rain," was Father Brown's gruff reply.

For nearly half an hour there was complete silence. Finally the old man's curiosity got the better of him.

"Who are you?" he growled.

"Samuel Green," was the response.

"What? Not old Tom Green's son?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, then," exclaimed the father, thawing, "it may rain, it may rain."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Saved Embroidery.

She was comely and a widow. She mourned MacIntosh, her late husband, for 18 months, and then from a crowd of suitors chose honest, homely MacIntyre for her second.

"I'm no' guld enough for ye, dear!" he whispered. "What for did ye choose me oot o' sae mony?"

"Aw, weel, ye see, your name's MacIntyre."

"Yes, but—" began the bewildered suitor.

"An' ye ken," finished the widow, "all my linen's marked 'MacIntyre'—that's why, Donald."

Wonderful Earrings.

The latest delicious splash in earrings! She was a pale and interesting type. A little enamel basket filled with green leaves and pink roses, also in enamel, hung from the ears by slender platinum chains. In the heart of each rose in the basket glistened a diamond.—New York Sun.

Lost Ring Oddly Found.

A Boston woman lost a ring highly prized as an heirloom. She searched diligently for it and offered a reward for its return. A few days later she was eating some cookies she had made and, to her joy and surprise, found that a particularly hard substance she bit into was her lost ring.

The Mode.

Mrs. Homebody (eagerly)—What did she wear?

Mr. Homebody—All I could see from where I sat was an air of sophistication.—Life.

Hen's Strange Brood.

At a farm at Dalton, near Ormskirk, England, a buff Orpington hen is acting as foster-mother to a litter of young spaniels, which creep under her wing at night.
